Pretty colors huh? I took it from my brother... he's still looking for it!!! Oh well. "Hi.... ladies gentlemen & others" Can you guess who? Mr. I you dummy!!! This class has been a real blast. I think it's because Mr. I is such a rad teacher. Remember the blind lab? God, my nose still hurts from walking face on, or should I say "nose" on, into the side of a locker. Of course we could of done w/o the lamb's heart, operation movies blood lab and those gross DUCK FEET "now pull the ligament to see the foot move" gross!! Yuk... Ugh!!!!!! thank goodness we didn't get that lung, intestine mess yeah for the government!!!!

"Heyt ... shut up ... rockwall!!!" ... rockwall!!!" Only 4 person got sent there. I bet he just used it as a threat. If not, I would expect almost everyone out there at one point in time.

Too bad we didn't have anymore classes together. Maybe next year but I highly doubt it. I'm not taking chemistry or Algebra 3-4, maybe English though. You have to get Wagui for Research 2nd semester. I've already been in her class & she's a good teacher. Besides, I'm supposed to find a new recruit for being obnoxious. Got to carry on the tradition.....

Well, I can tell by now that you're ~~thoroughly~~ thoroughly bored and you probably can't read my writing anymore. See ya' next year u being a junior & I being a SENIOR!!!

Growing Up THE PATH TO ADULTHOOD

High school. It's a time of tremendous change and growth. During the four years spent in the ninth through twelfth grades, most students undergo the sometimes thrilling and exciting, sometimes painful and awkward process of becoming adults. Despite occasional endless nights, the time passes very quickly. It seems like almost overnight small, physically immature freshmen become fully developed senior men and women. Their mental growth mirrors their physical. As freshmen, students first learn to write expository essays and begin to study algebra. By the time they graduate, however, these students have completed their own research papers and have far surpassed their early math skills.

After reaching high school, the first major milestone on the path to adulthood occurs during the tenth grade. Most sophomores turn sixteen during that year and sometime soon after get their driver's license. Being able to drive is an enormous change. It grants students much more freedom than they have earlier experienced. No longer must they depend on mommy and daddy to chauffeur them every time they need to go someplace. Accompanying this freedom, however, is an increase in responsibility. Fatal automobile accidents kill thousands each year, and drunk driving carries terrible risks. Each student must decide for himself how he intends to drive, but during this decision making process, he learns about himself and advances toward maturity.

As juniors and seniors, students find their thoughts turning inevitably toward college. During October of their junior year, they take the PSAT to prepare for the SAT, which looms as the threatening examination that students believe they must excel on to get into the college of their choice.

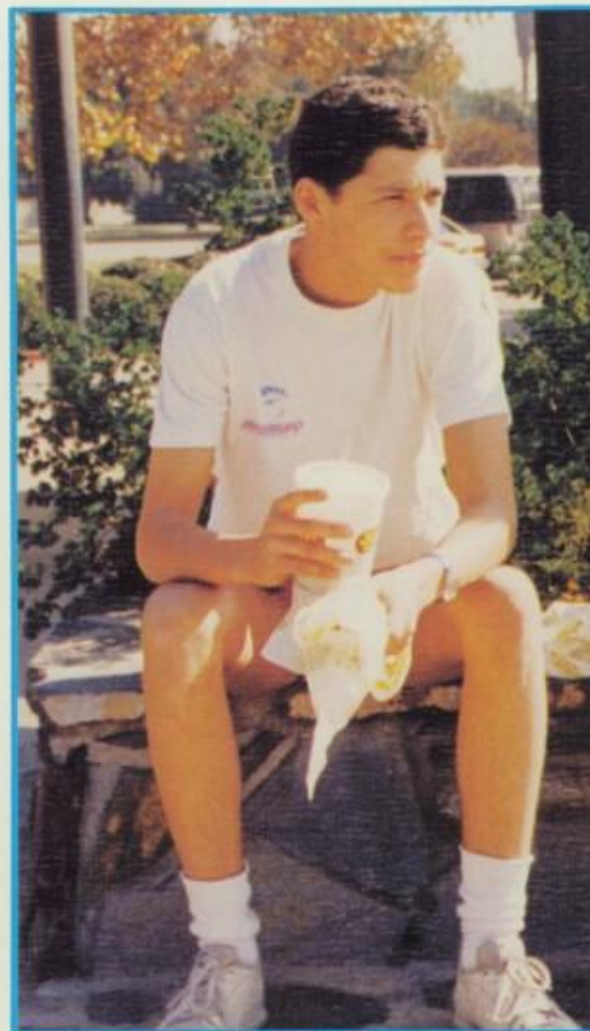

Grades also become increasingly important as students begin the process of researching colleges and selecting the ones they would like to attend. After examining the entrance requirements of various colleges, some students wish they had worked harder earlier, while others feel content. This process of college selection clarifies the goals of students and moves them one step further toward becoming adults.

After entering the twelfth grade, students begin to fill out college applications, a process which forces them to realize that in just a few months they will be leaving home and becoming even more independent than they already are. Also during the senior year, students turn eighteen and become legally responsible for themselves. All males must register for the draft, a startling event that shatters the protective bubble that many high school students build around themselves. The "real" world and the possibility of war can and does affect students. Eligibility to vote strengthens this realization. Seniors have the right, responsibility, and duty to register and vote for the candidates of their choice. No longer are they thirteen-year-olds who are carefully protected by their parents. Now they have matured to the point where society entrusts them with the responsibility to help govern themselves.

By no means does the process of growth end with graduation from high school. People learn and grow throughout their lives, but during the four years spent in high school change occurs the most rapidly.

The ever increasing freedom and the accompanying responsibility combine to make high school both an exciting and a painful experience.

The New School Year CHANGES AND ATTITUDES

Every school year begins with a new freshman class and new teachers. This year has been especially notable for its major changes in the administration. This confirms the fact that just as we experience changes in our lives, the high school undergoes transformations of its own.

The new freshman class experienced the vast difference between the junior high and the high school. A bigger work load, less time to spend with friends, and greater responsibilities were complaints that the Class of '90 made, but they knew that the adjustments were all part of growing up. "It's inevitable," one freshman explained.

The five new teachers also had major alterations thrust upon them. Mr. Kent Hartman, last year a student at UCLA and now a math teacher at SMHS, described the flip-flop of his position as a 180 degree turn. When asked about his attitude toward change, he asserted that he opposed change for its own sake but added that he favored progress. He saw his new job here as a step forward in his life.

The changes in administration were the most outstanding modifications at the school. Mr. Jack Rose became principal; Mr. Charles Johnson, assistant-principal of instruction; and Mr. Loren Kleinrock, assistant-principal of activities. Although the positions were different, the people were familiar. Because no one in the new administration was new to the school or to each other, the transition to the altered positions was an easy one. Observed Mr. David Crist, former assistant-principal turned counselor, the change was a "positive transformation" that brought "fresh energy and new ideas." One thing that did not change, however, was the administration's goal of the best possible program of education for its students.

The unavoidable process of change. Everyone and everything experiences it, and SMHS had its full dose of it this year. We spend four years of our lives in high school, so the changes that affect it affect us. How much each individual grows depends on his own attitude toward change.

'FESTIVE EVENT'

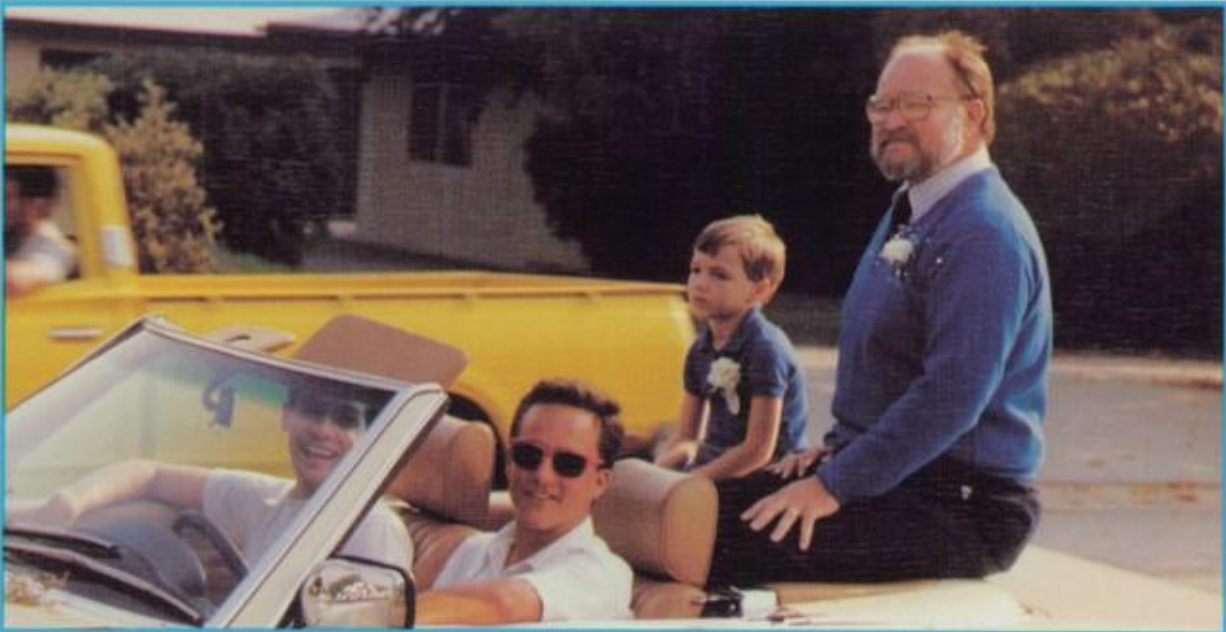

Homecoming

The spirit-filled day began with an extended lunch period. In-and-Out catered the food while past year's Pep and current Pep provided the entertainment, performing a pep rally on the baseball field. At 3:15, Homecoming festivities resumed with a parade down Huntington Dr. consisting of school clubs, ASB, Pep, administrators, Homecoming Court, and class floats. The floats and Court were seen again during halftime of the Homecoming game when the juniors' float was pronounced the winner. SMHS spirit especially showed during this last episode of Homecoming. Titan fans held up cheer cards throughout the game and stomped their feet on the stands to applaud outstanding plays. Junior Charlie Chamberlain initiated a cheer among the student section of the stands shouting, "GO," with the crowd responding, "TITANS." The Titan band also helped Pep to arouse spectator enthusiasm by yelling cheers, stomping their feet in unison and playing peppy victory tunes.

Ann Comegys, Pep secretary, expressed gratitude towards these individuals commenting, "The vast participation and spirit by so many students, parents, and administrators, helped make Homecoming a festive event."

Coronation Ball NEW PROPOSALS

"I didn't know that the planning and organization for the Coronation would take up so much of my time and effort, but still it was fun," exclaimed ASB Activities Commissioner Tammy Salin. ASB spent much of their time in the early part of the year organizing the Coronation Ball.

The event was held on October 11 at Junior Carrie Johnson's house. ASB decided for the first time to have a professional photographer available at the dance to take pictures of any couple who wanted them. The dance ended at 11 p.m., earlier than usual, because in the past people generally left the dance early. ASB therefore felt that there wasn't a need for the chaperones to stay late after most of the people had already left. The highlight of the evening came with the announcing of the Homecoming Court. The court consisted of Queen Lane Avera, Senior Princess Christine Edwards, Junior Princess Christa Gledhill, Sophomore Princess Lori Sturges, and Freshman Princess Kim Furuta.

Overall, ASB felt that the dance had been profitable. Dan Jett, ASB publicity commissioner, remarked, "Everyone on ASB carried out the jobs that were assigned to them for the dance very well which helped to make the dance successful."

Congratulating the queen, Eric Klingensmith crowns Lane Avera. Lane was also on the court her freshman and sophomore years.

Overjoyed, the Homecoming Court sits with the football players who crowned them. Traditionally, football players have crowned the court at the Coronation.

Enjoying themselves at the Coronation Ball, Alyson Seden and Jerry Dietrick dance together. Near the end of the dance, Jerry crowned sophomore princess Lori Sturges.

During the excitement of the evening, Beverly Johnson congratulates the Sophomore Princess Lori Sturges. Lori exclaimed, "I was so excited and surprised to find out!"

Pleased with the music of the Singles, Ta-Te Wu and his date Terry Yang dance to the music of the live band. The Singles have played at other school dances.

Proud of her hand-made igloo, Andrea Pott relaxes inside, enjoying its warmth and protection. Winter Survival students spent two nights and three days in the outdoors, sleeping in their self-made igloos.

To warm his cabin, Jim Condi feeds the wood burning stove. The cabin lacked conventional heating and running water.

Winter Survival backpackers Ted Smith, John Feters, and Steve Nalick prepare to embark on an overnight trip. The trip consisted of a seventeen mile hike to El Capitan.

Posing against the beautiful backdrop of Yosemite Falls, Kara Wright takes a break from her hike. Hiking to the top of the Falls offered a rewarding view of the beautiful Yosemite valley and village.

Crane Flate hikers relax in the rain during their gruelling 3-day trip. Despite the rain, the students continued their hike.

After taking a fall in the snow, Natlie Box receives help in climbing the slippery slope. Snow-shoeing was but one of the many excursions offered.

HIGHLIGHT FOR STUDENTS

Fall Yosemite Trip

On the morning of Wednesday, September 24, half-asleep SMHS students arrived at school at 6:30 a.m. to register for the fall Yosemite trip. About 8 weeks later, on the morning of November 16, these 38 students, along with four SMHS faculty members, boarded the buses for the awe-inspiring National Park.

Once there, they participated in daily hikes, some as long as 17 miles. On these hikes, the students and young trail crew members held discussions on such topics as nature, ecology, and geology. Students also learned how to identify the different types of rock, trees, and birds found in the park.

As a follow-up to the hikes, trail crew members gave after-dinner lectures, one of which former SMHS student Annie Barrett coordinated.

According to Junior Beverly Boyd, "The trip tied in with several of my classes: biology, chemistry, and math. But besides being informative, it was fun because by the end of the week you had become a lot closer to everyone, and you had gained new friends who shared your memories of a once-in-a-lifetime experience." Mr. Burt Kanner, program coordinator, added that the week was very valuable to students in that "they had a chance to learn up close, through a very knowledgeable group of young people, about the world they live in."

As for the time change of the trip, Mr. Kanner stressed the positive aspect of it, pointing out that the smaller group, due to the change, minimized the impact on the rest of the student body and made it easier for teachers to carry on with lessons.

Mr. Kanner regretted, however, that not as many students participated in what those who did considered the highlight of their year.

To avoid wading in the freezing water, Renee Minkle gets carried across by Jon Apt. It was necessary to cross the stream on one of the hikes.

On the long ride home, Julie Shannon and Lea Bolster share some jokes and enjoy a good book. The trip took between eight and nine hours.

Taking refuge from the cold weather, Renee Minkle and Cindy Miller sit inside the hollowed trunk of a Sequoia. Yosemite is known for its vast number of huge Sequoia.

Taking a break from their hike, a group of Yosemite students relax on fallen timber. Hikes usually lasted from 8:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m.

The casts of the One Acts are celebrating their success. They looked forward to being in more plays.

Cindy Ralphs and David Hulting act out a touching scene in The Dining Room. Cindy has been in plays since her freshman year.

Drama BUTTERFLIES ON STAGE

Nail-biting, teeth chattering, knuckles cracking, and voices rehearsing were heard in the Webb Theatre during auditions for the first play of the year, The Dining Room.

The Dining Room was a comedy about WASPS, White Anglo Saxon Protestants. There were 18 scenes which all took place in a rich dining room. Some scenes were funny and others touching, but together they gave a complete picture of this lifestyle.

This year there were four Frosh-Soph One Acts. The first one was Baby, which described a baby's first year of life. The baby had an imaginary coach who told her what to do. Eventually, she matured to the point where she no longer needed the coach's advice. Madison Ave. Merry-Go-Round was about an advertising agency that needed a slogan for a lipstick company. Since they feared that another company was spying on them, they hired a private detective. The detective told them that it was false information designed to fool the other agency. The third one act was called Opening Night. It was about an actress who wasn't nervous about her opening night, but whose relatives and fellow actors were. Their nervousness rubbed off, and by the time she left for the stage, she was a nervous wreck. In the final one act, a lady who was worried about her husband tried to call him. In the process, she overheard someone planning a murder. She tried to tell somebody but nobody would listen. Ironically, she was the target and was eventually killed. This play was called Sorry, Wrong Number.

The third drama event was The Prisoner of Second Ave., which Ms. Bennett Wright directed. The senior play, the last play of the year, provided many opportunities for seniors who hadn't been in plays before to try out.

Nervousness didn't stop the quality or quantity of plays," concluded actress Grace Wang.

Explaining his funeral arrangements, David Shofner and Bob Linsalato sit in The Dining Room. David, beginning in his freshman year, has been in many plays.

Posing together after Opening Night are Kimi Wines and Molly Long. Since they were freshmen this was their first play.

Christmas Dance

MUCH PLANNING

The Amicians sponsored and organized the Christmas Dance which occurred on Saturday, December 6, at the Glendale Civic Auditorium. According to Tricia DeSpirito, Amician president, the dance took a lot of preparation and time from all the members. The club started planning early with six service groups, each in charge of a certain portion of the dance. Tricia expressed, "The girls went straight to their task when we arrived at the auditorium, which let us finish the final preparations in only an hour."

The dance was held from 8 to 11 p.m. The couples listened to music from the D.J. Jedd the Fish from KROQ. Even though the dance's location was small and farther away than usual, Tricia felt that people enjoyed the place of the dance. For the first time favors and paper stockings were given to each couple attending the dance. The evening came to an end when Amician members crowned the court. They were: King David Solomon, Senior Prince Chuck Adams, Junior Prince Tom Sturges, Sophomore Prince Andy Swanson, and Freshman Prince Tyler Tripp. The Christmas Dance took much organization, but the Amicians felt it was successful because 220 couples bought tickets, a larger attendance than usual.

Pausing to take in the Christmas atmosphere, Amanda Zimmerman and Mike Sohl rest from dancing. As seniors, they experienced the excitement of their last high school Christmas Dance.

Enjoying the evening, couples have fun on a crowded dance floor. There was a larger attendance of students than usual at the dance.

Congratulating the Sophomore Prince, Amician member Leslie Wallen dances with Andy Swanson. Amician members crowned the court.

Delighted with the music, Sydney Jones dances with friends. Jedd the Fish from KROQ provided the music.

Greatly pleased by the evening, Ingrid Box and Ginny King show their enjoyment. According to Amician members, most people were pleased with the dance.

Rivalry Day

FRIENDLY COMPETITION

Rivalry Day, as in recent years, was two days of friendly competition in which the freshman and sophomore classes competed against each other in different events. Points were given to the winner of each event. At the end of the day, a winner was selected, but the real purpose of the activities was to bring the two classes together for two days of fun and spirit.

Freshman and sophomore cabinets designed special T-shirts for their classes. The freshmen wore orange and white shirts, while the sophomores dressed in red, white, and black.

On Friday, February 6, at lunch, the court was crowned, and there were three games of tug-of-war. The freshmen won the girls' game while the sophomores won the boys' and co-ed ones.

The next day, the two classes met on the field. Since there was a low sophomore turnout, the sophs were given time to round up more people by holding the pie-eating contest first instead of the 20-man relay. While the freshman girls and sophomore boys finished their pies first, enough sophomores were gathered to begin the 20-man relay. The sophomores won. Scaling the greased pole was the next event, which the sophomore boys and girls both won. Pushball and volleyball followed. The sophomores won the first and the freshmen won the latter. Everybody then moved to the Boys' Gym for several types of relay races. The Class of '89 won two out of the three. This was the end of Rivalry Day. The sophomores had won.

Rivalry Day proceeded smoothly without any problems; it will probably continue as a tradition in future years.

As Emilie Kerckhoff, Sophomore Class president, stated, "Rivalry Day was a fun and competitive day because the people that were there put in a lot of effort."

Showing strain on their faces, twenty freshman boys pull against the sophomores. This event occurred after the court crowning.

Furiously running, Mike Arens races along the track. He helped win this event for the sophomores.

Struggling upward, the sophomore boys try to climb the greased pole. They captured the flag in a time faster than the freshmen.

Sloppily, Patrick Thompson digs into his cherry pie. This was the first event of the day.

Grad Night ATLANTIS: THE LOST CITY

Heather Spencer expressed the feelings of many seniors when she commented, "Grad Night is the seniors' most anticipated event, next to graduation." This year's Grad Night theme was "Atlantis: The Lost City."

The graduation celebration represented combined efforts of the parents of juniors and seniors. All worked hard to build and create the perfect atmosphere, transforming the Boys' and Girls' Gyms into an undersea extravaganza. Mr. and Mrs. John Werden, associate chairmen, helped with all the arrangements, and Mrs. Cathy Shanahan and Mrs. Marion Tompkins were in charge of designing costumes for the waiters, especially for the maitre-d', the head waiter. "Designing the waiters' costumes was a challenge. They had to be spectacular, support the theme, yet easy to make and wear," revealed Mrs. Shanahan.

Mrs. Maryadele Clougherty, chairperson along with her husband Tom, oversaw all the arrangements and agreed that Grad Night was "where San Marino seniors celebrate with joy and nostalgia."

The evening's festivities consisted of games, a sit-down dinner, and an early breakfast. Seniors received door prizes ranging from headphones to mini refrigerators, all donated by parents. As in past

Grad Nights, the junior parents were waiters and hostesses.

Breaking the tradition of holding a contest among the seniors, the Grad Night logo was designed by professionals who did the facade.

Painted walls instead of curtains were another difference that contributed to the theme of Atlantis.

Having enjoyed a great final year, the Senior Class took advantage of sharing a festive night together.

Senior Raquel Hernandez acknowledged that "the last few hours that are spent at Grad Night will be life long memories."

PRESERVING MEMORIES

Fads and Trends

As in previous years, 1986 and 1987 brought with them a whole new set of fads and trends. And as the last digit in the year increased, so did the fitness-conscious attitude, characteristic of the younger generation. SMHS students tended to frequent such health food restaurants as The Good Earth, where they could order vegetarian dishes, 12 grain bread, and tofu. Of those Titans who didn't have off-campus privileges, many filled their lunch sacks with such healthy items as rice cakes, salads, and bottled water, which could be purchased at the trendy new Bristol Farms Gourmet market. Another health food hit was the frozen yogurt fad, perpetuated by J. Higby's and The Creamery.

With the fitness-conscious attitude also came comfortable clothing. Many Titan men could be seen walking about campus in clothing bearing Sideout labels. T-shirts, decorated with modern graphics and logos, inspired a new fad of "design-your-own" shirts. For the feet, Reebok were again the most worn comfort shoes for guys and girls. When not wearing Reebok, SMHS girls could be seen clad in a Western style of dress, characterized by rhinestoned blouses, fringe and leather boots, and denim fabric. They used big

They used big bow clips of various colors and fabrics to pull back their hair, which was worn longer this year.

A trend toward 4x4 Blazers and Cherokee Chiefs was obvious when scanning the SMHS parking lot.

There was also a demand for personalized painted plastic goods, which in turn brought on the paint pen craze.

While this year's fads and trends helped preserve the memories of 1986 and 1987, the attachment to them was temporary, for fads do fade, and trends do turn!

Returning to the list of Titan trends in '86-'87, Reebok couldn't be surpassed as the most popular comfort shoe.

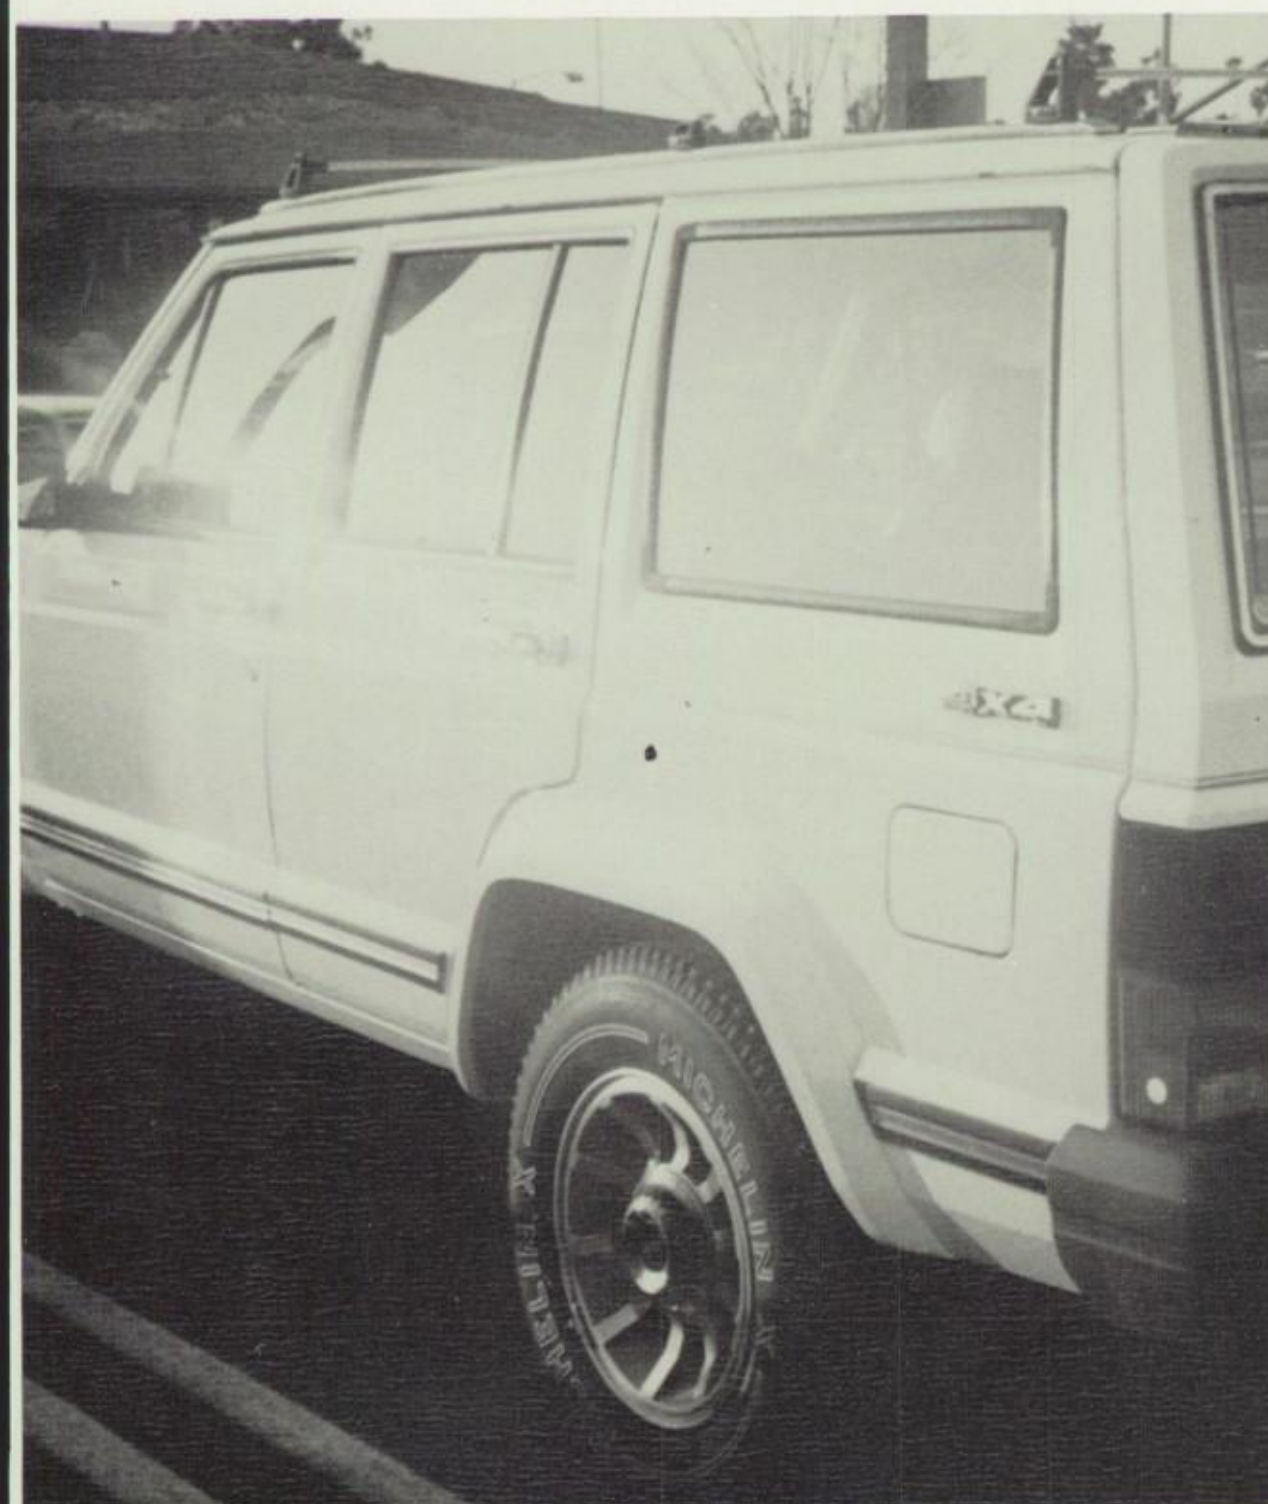

Using large fabric bows to accentuate their hair, Ivana Kim models a type of the bow clip. The very short, chic hairstyles of previous years were replaced by long, more feminine styles in '86-'87.

Servicing the fitness-conscious attitude of the 80's, Bristol Farms offers a large selection of such trendy items as rice cakes and mineral water to SMHS students.

Clad in leather and fringe boots, rhinestoned top, and jean jacket, Lisa Maywood and Nadine Ruiz know their fashion fads.

Able to carry a large number of passengers, the 4x4 was a big fad among San Marino students.

Karen Alexander displays a comfortable combination of denim wear and leather boots. These were both characteristic of Western style of dress.

Current Events

National

In the biggest government scandal since Watergate, Lieutenant Colonel Oliver North and National Security Advisor John Poindexter resigned when the covert sale of arms to Iran became public. The controversy, dubbed "Iranscam," heightened when it was learned that the money from the sale was diverted to fund the Nicaraguan contras.

The Fourth of July saw the spectacular unveiling of the Statue of Liberty after a two-year refurbishing project, costing over $75 million. The celebration included a 28-minute fireworks display.

Hundreds of teenagers overturned cars, burned police vehicles, and stole bathing suits from contestants in a bikini contest as they rioted during Huntington Beach's OP Pro Surfing Contest over Labor Day Weekend.

Pilots Dick Rutan and Jeana Yeager took nine days to circle the earth in their aircraft Voyager, marking the first nonstop flight around the world without refueling.

The largest Civil Rights march since the 1960's was held in the all-White Forsythe County where 20,000 protesters marched peacefully. No Blacks have been allowed to live in the Georgian county for 70 years since three Blacks allegedly raped and killed a White girl.

As the drug debates heated up on Capitol Hill, so did anti-drug action in South America. Colombian cocaine lord Carlos Lehder Rivas, responsible for shipment of 80% of the world's cocaine, was captured and extradited to Miami in February. President Reagan also initiated an anti-drug Marine task force in Colombia to reduce cocaine trafficking.

Filipino voters confirmed by a 75% majority Corazon Aquino's new constitution, which grants her an additional five and a half years as president. Early in 1986 she replaced the deposed Ferdinand Marcos, now living in exile in Hawaii.

Sarah Ferguson, affectionately called "Fergie," married Prince Andrew in Westminster Abbey. Their July 23 wedding produced a pageant almost as large as Charles and Diana's.

Terrorism continued to strike around the world as car bombs exploded in Paris and Beirut. A bomb in a TWA plane ripped a hole in its fuselage, hurling three adults and an infant to their deaths. Several people were taken hostage in Lebanon, including Anglican Church envoy Terry Waite, who had earlier negotiated the release of David Jacobsen of Huntington Beach.

President Ronald Reagan and General Secretary Mikhail Gorbachev met in Reykjavik, Iceland for three days in an attempt to reach an arms agreement. The talks stalled when Reagan refused to abandon SDI, the Strategic Defense Initiative.

The Russian government arrested U.S. News and World Report correspondent Nicholas Daniloff and charged him with espionage in late fall. They agreed to release him only after a protracted diplomatic struggle with the United States.

Nicaraguan Army Members shot down a private cargo plane carrying medical and military supplies to contra rebels, capturing ex-CIA agent Eugene Hasenfus in the process. After charging him with spying, they tried and sentenced him to 30 years in prison. Nicaraguan President Daniel Ortega pardoned him several weeks later.

The Iran-Iraq War entered its seventh year as both countries came closer to collapse.

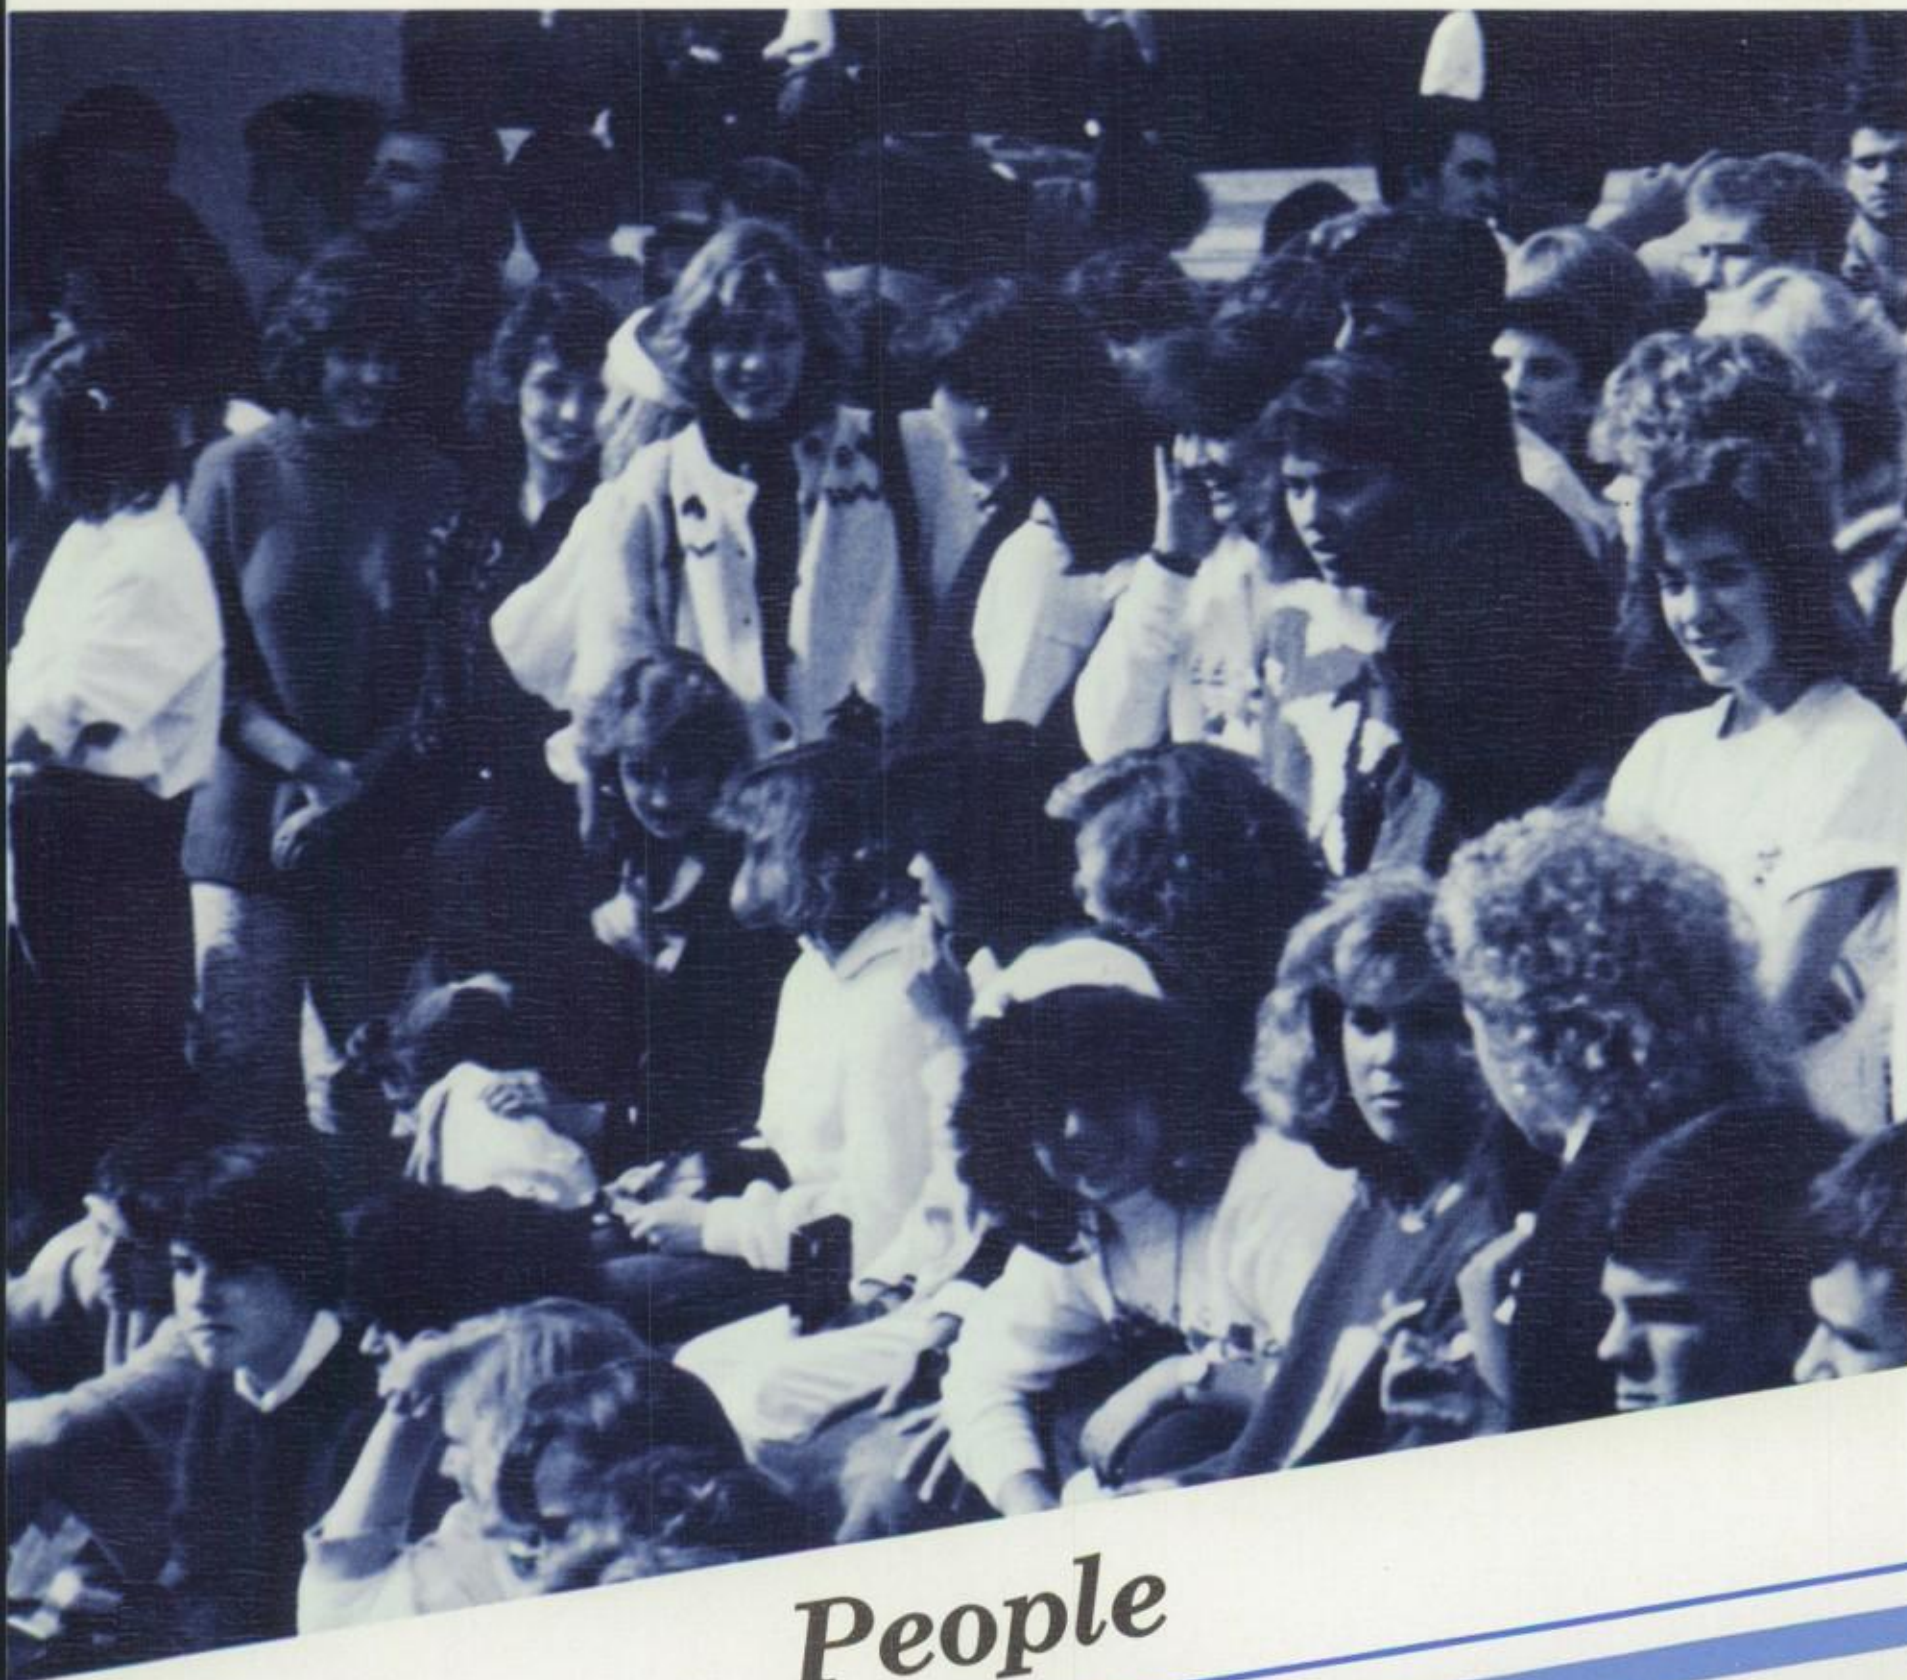

Under great pressure from Western governments, the Soviet Union released dissidents Anatoly Sheharansky and Andrei Sakharov from Siberian labor camps.

Senior Cabinet WHAT A HECTIC YEAR!

Pressure mounts as the senior cabinet begins their meeting. So much must be accomplished in so little time! The key to this exciting, havoc-promoting, pressure-filled year is PLANNING!

With the help of the Senior Advisory Board, President Jason Bass, together with his cabinet, organized every senior activity, sale, dance, and picnic imaginable. Everything from the senior calendar to class reunions has been on our president's agenda.

As Vice President David Solomon put it, "Hectic is having four meetings to go to during lunch ... Needless to say I always chose our cabinet meetings — sometimes." No doubt the word hectic described this past year for the whole senior class, including the cabinet!

Surprisingly, however, with all the stressful tasks to tackle, everything ran smoothly this year. President Bass attributed this year's successes to the closeness of the cabinet. "Because we are all such good friends, we've worked well together."

Next time the senior class cabinet meets will be for the five-year reunion. This will involve lots of effective planning and hard work. After that will be the ten-year reunion, twenty-year, thirty-year ... thirty-five year ... ?

Good luck, Jason.

Mrs. Peggy Mabry, Mr. Phil Ryan, and Mrs. Sue Pettis drown in their stacks of recommendations. They spent many hours writing letters for seniors, earlier this year.

Senior Rec.'s THE QUEST

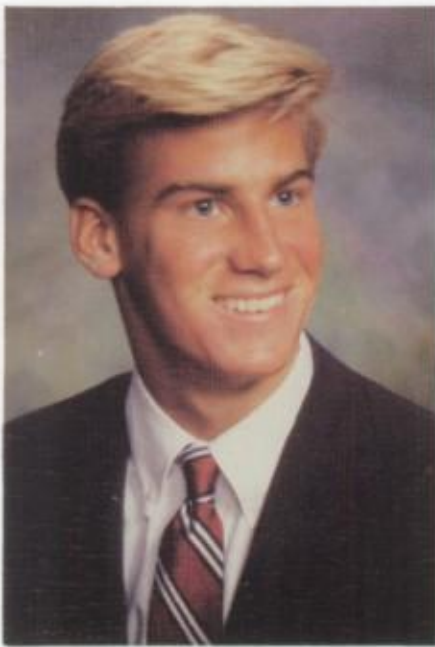

College recommendations? They exist, as many seniors discovered this year. In applying to most colleges, a student must have a teacher's recommendation. This letter takes time to write, and for the teachers who offer their time to students, it is a time commitment they don't get paid for.

The most difficult part of rec-writing, English teacher Mrs. Peggy Mabry stated, is "trying to put into words an entire person." It is also a time-consuming task. When asked how she views the time commitment involved in writing a recommendation, Math teacher Mrs. Sue Pettis responded, "Many students do not realize when they hand a teacher four to five letters to write, that twenty to twenty-five others will do the same. In order to do an adequate job, and I hope to do better than adequate, it consumes several weekends as well as three to four days over Christmas vacation to compose and follow up on students' requests."

The work does pay off, however. Mrs. Mabry commented, "The big enjoyment comes when the student comes back and tells you that he has been accepted." Mrs. Mabry cautioned that nothing irritates these rec-writers more than ingratitude.

The faculty is available to give this "gift" to the students. As Mrs. Pettis stated, "It is an honor."

When the quest of finishing recommendations ends, Mrs. Mabry feels it's wonderful knowing you've "touched the future."

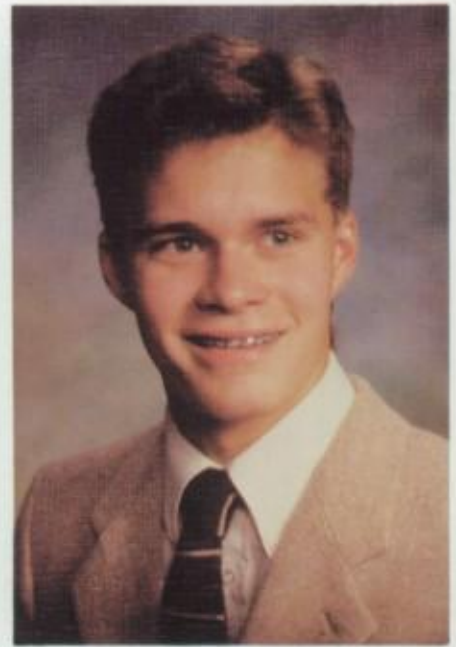

ERIC CRABTREE ... If you survive the PEAK at the WEDGE on red flag, you've lived life to the fullest.

LIB CRARY ... I feel a tree, Evergreen my soul shall be. From darkest glen to aviator blue, Spruce to the sky, white clouds break through.

Getting quickly organized, Jason Bass and other seniors prepare their float to head out onto the track at halftime during Homecoming.

Senior Float FUN WORK

The Senior Class put all it had into it.

"Hey, gimme that paint brush."

"Jeez, watch it! C'mon and help me stick this hose in Snoopy."

"Check out this sign, 'Nuke the Vikings.'"

"Do you think we need a reserve tank of water?"

"Hey, I need help mounting the engine on the Blairplane."

Seniors, rallied by Class President Jason Bass, were determined to win the Homecoming float contest. For the first year in their float-building history, the Class of 1987 was able to use power tools without adult supervision. "It gave us a lot more creative freedom and a lot less adult dependency," Jason commented. The administrators have a rule that disallows the use of power tools by underclassmen. "We did the whole thing ourselves. We wanted it this year more than anything and our designing and engineering showed it," he continued.

With "Peanuts" as this year's theme, the float consisted of Snoopy riding atop his dog house shooting down the green and yellow "Blairplane." A pole running down the center of the dog house connected Snoopy to the float and enabled the beagle to turn in circles. A special feature on the float was a watershooting machine gun mounted to Snoopy's paws. Many asked how water reached the gun. A small hose attached to the gun snaked its way through Snoopy's arm, into the pole through the middle of the float, and into one of two two-gallon jugs. The gun siphoned the water through the hose, and with directional aid from the operator, squirted the crowd at the parade route. The Blairplane's propeller rotated with help from a small engine mounted within, and its burning wreck smoked with the aid of hidden dry ice.

Despite the efforts of the Senior Class, their goal was not to be. The Junior Class took first place, the Senior Class second. "We don't care what the judges said," commented Jim Condie. "We feel we still won."

Relaxing in the summer sun, Seniors Lib Crary and Karen Sanderson don their shades for Ditch Week.

Ditch Week BLOW-OUT

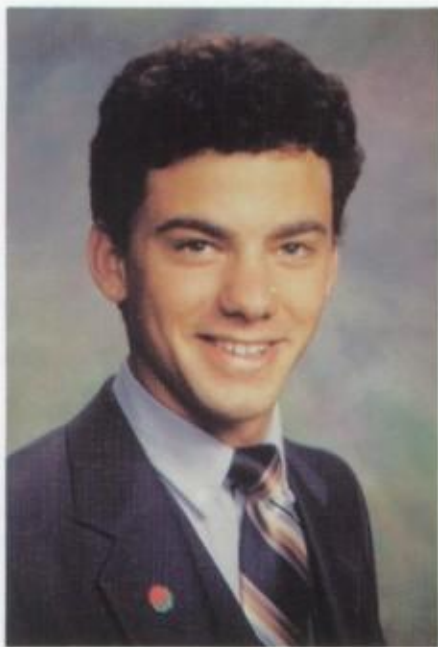

During the second semester finals, attendance drops drastically as almost all of the seniors are enjoying their last week out of school. More commonly known as Ditch Week, freshmen and sophomores dream about it, juniors envy it, and seniors live it. Ditch Week has been enjoyed by many past graduates, relieved that they didn't have to take any finals.

Or do they? Many seniors and teachers alike believe that finals are a waste of time since most seniors have already been accepted to college. Others think that a final is necessary for a grade, and the teacher might offer it the week before. Yet a few teachers require seniors to take their finals on the scheduled day.

Andrea Pott thought that teachers "should be more understanding," but it is "reasonable to allow the final on an earlier day." Whether or not seniors must take their finals, they all seem to kick back before graduation and Grad Nite.

"It's a justified privilege," commented Dan Jett. Adina Turchin felt that Ditch Week "makes us feel special because we're above the rest."

Many seniors plan to go away with friends beginning Friday afternoon and to return for graduation practice on Thursday. Popular places to go include Newport Beach, Lake Arrowhead, Palm Springs, and Mexico.

Relieved that the anxiety is over, Michelle Mucci and Denise Varner aren't disappointed. Both made the finals in the Rose Court tryouts.

Court Tryouts EXCITING

Three seniors among the 877 other contestants made the finals in the tryouts for the Tournament of Rose's Court, held in September and October. Michelle Mucci, Kirsten Salo, and Denise Varner continued the tryouts until they were in a group of 25 finalists from which the Queen and Court were chosen. In the first two rounds, judges based their decisions on looks and poise; contestants were interviewed in the third round with general-information questions such as: "How would you improve the Pasadena area?" or "What would your family think of your being on the Court?"

Michelle commented that "the atmosphere was really comfortable," but "the anxiety was incredible" during the long waits before each succeeding round, Denise added. None of the three was disappointed when they learned that they weren't selected for the Court; rather they were relieved that the tryouts were over. Michelle stressed that "it's still a great experience no matter how far you get!"

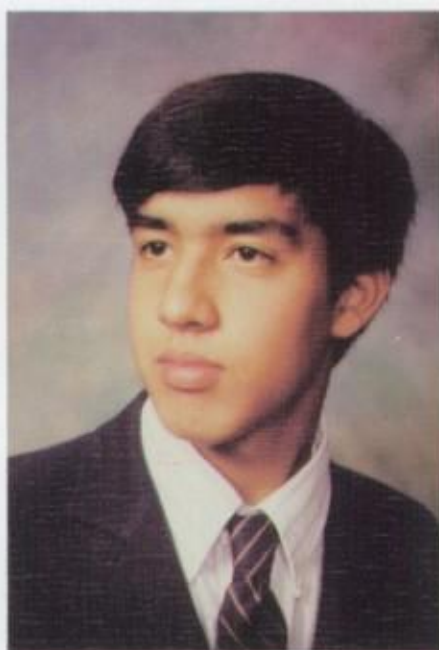

"It was fun to meet girls from other schools; the tryouts were relaxed — just talking about yourself," Denise recalled. "The Rose Court tryouts are a worthwhile experience and any junior interested should tryout next fall," Michelle concluded.

Mr. Michael Gallion teaches one of his three psychology classes. Seniors were sorry to see Mr. Gallion leave late in November.

Psychology LEARNING

There you are sitting in your chair when suddenly your mind begins to race wildly. You scream, "I need help!" Don't worry about it; psychology is next period.

Why take psychology? "I like to play with people's minds," joked student Steve Baker. Honestly, the three primary goals of the course were to spell psychology correctly, to become better acquainted with psychological terms, and to help the students gain a new awareness of themselves and the people around them. The topics they discussed in the semester-long course range from mental illness, Freud, neo — Freudians, and self-esteem to dream analysis and sex.

Mr. Michael Gallion, instructor of the course "really wanted to get the subject across" to the student, concluded Steve Baker. Free discussions, skits, meditation and the dreaded A.P. (applied psychology) paper were some parts of the curricular.

Senior Dan Jett felt that psychology "is relaxing and allows (him) to be (himself) without turning into a cold student." Mike Gallion preferred to have students think of him more as a "person than just a teacher." He felt this would allow the student to excel in class.

Applied psychology was the essence of the course. Learning and relating what one has learned was the key. The psychology class taught students to be open and honest.

Taking a snapshot for the Senior Slide Show, Steve Baker carefully focuses on his subject. Steve, a veteran photographer, has taken many pictures for the Titanian.

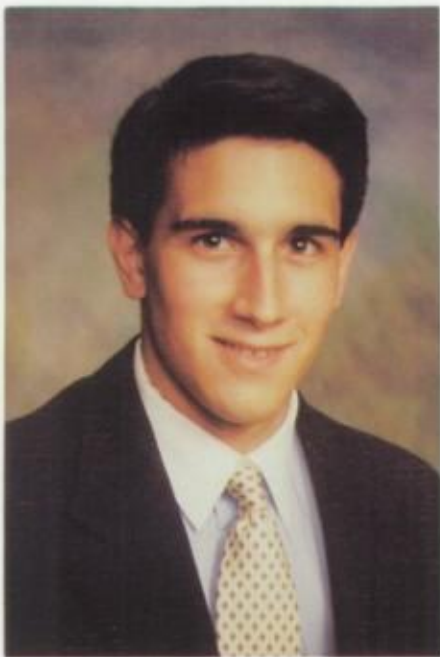

Slide Show SHOW BIZ

As the students settled into their seats, the lights slowly faded. Then, all of a sudden, gigantic pictures appeared on the three mammoth screens, accompanied by amplified music and loud voices. This was the Senior Slide Show, a collection of slides showing the ups and downs of the seniors' four years in high school. Everyone seemed thrilled on this particular occasion.

Jason Bass, the Senior president, remarked, "The Senior Slide Show represents the culmination of our four years. Many look upon it as a sort of celebration to remember their high school years by."

Another student who expressed a similar view is Spencer Sun, the Senior treasurer. He described the slide show as "sentimental, but yet reflecting a true sense of class spirit."

In short, everyone looked upon the Senior Slide Show as a souvenir of the high school which they quickly left behind.

Enjoying their afternoon in the park, Diane Pettit, Mugs Werstuk, and Candy Cheng wait for a volleyball.

Picnic Organizers. Spencer Sun, Barbie Hansen, Mr. King Stuart, Jason Bass, Angie Villa, and David Solomon.

Playing frisbee, Justin Cuccia makes a spectacular reverse catch. The Senior Picnic featured sports events such as frisbee, football, and volleyball.

While cleaning up after the picnic, Senior Class President Jason Bass reflects upon the event's success. The luncheon included sandwiches and desserts brought by the Senior Advisory Board.

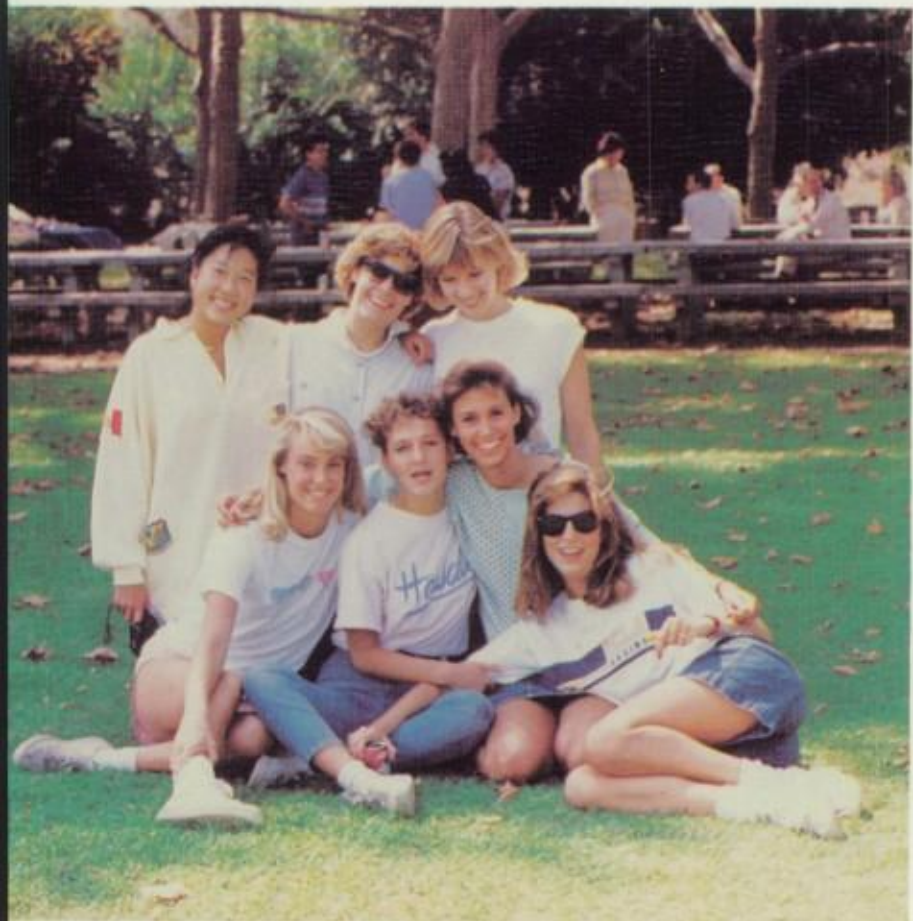

Senior Picnic PARK, ETC.

Every year the senior class sponsors a special activity, the Senior Picnic, in which the seniors engage in a wide variety of outdoor sports. The chief organizers included the senior cabinet, Mr. King Stuart, and Mrs. Susan Gordinier, Senior Class mother.

According to Jason Bass, the Senior Class president, "This year we saw active participation in that the senior class turned out in large numbers." When Jason was asked what was the main motivation for this big turnout, he remarked, "People just want to have some fun. We have different types of sports such as volleyball, frisbee, and football. Also, there is the advantage of a free meal to accomodate the participants."

Another senior who attended the Senior Picnic, Dan Jett, commented, "The Senior Picnic is a sort of nice get-together in which you could have fun with your friends before graduation. It was packed with countless numbers of games and activities that all who went there seemed to have a great time."

In short, this year's Senior Picnic reflected the senior class' sincere interest in their own class as well as their own desire to have some fun.

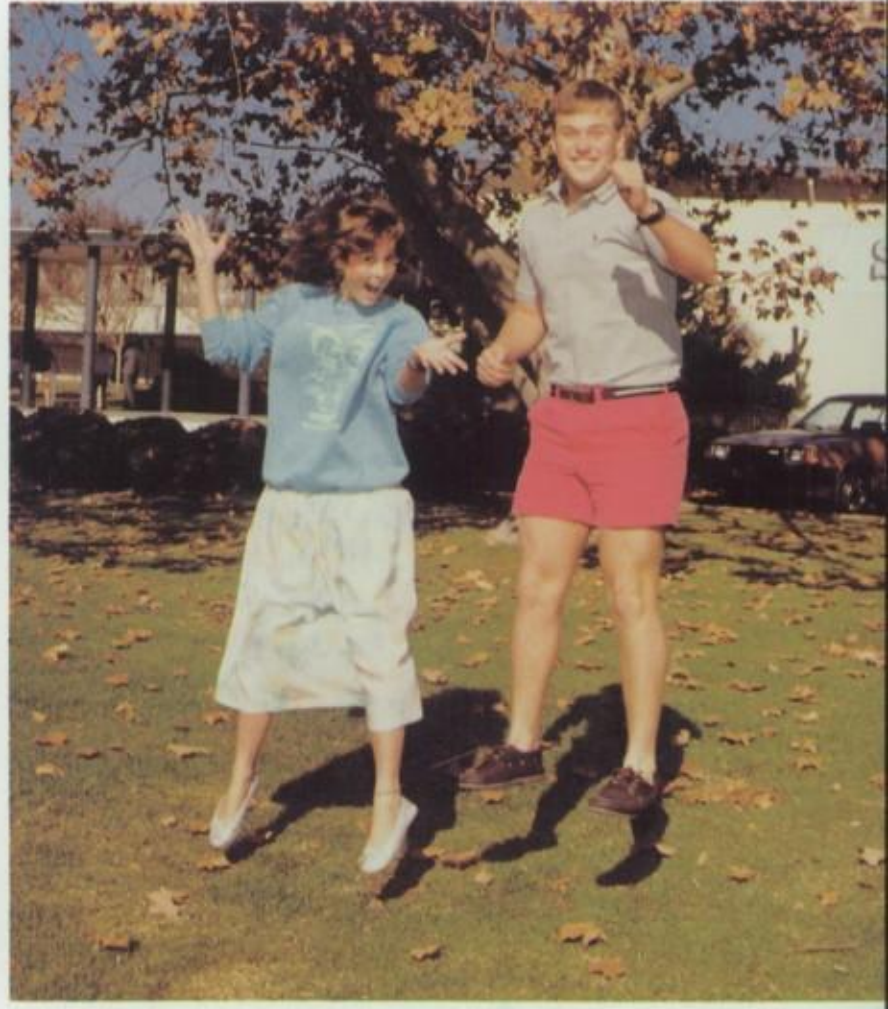

This smiling group lounges around together at Lacy Park during the picnic. The seniors who attended this special event enjoyed the fun and games offered.

Taking a short break, Curtis Gordinier enjoys the afternoon sun. The picnic was a time of relaxation for many seniors.

SAB • CARE DEVOTING TIME

Many special organizations deserve recognition for their contributions to the school.

CARE, an organization whose members were selected on the basis of a lengthy application and chosen by the faculty staff, exemplifies an example of this commitment. It originally started in 1972 as an organization to fight substance abuse. Presently, the 24 CARE members serve as counselors to sixth graders on topics such as self-esteem and decision-making.

One CARE member, Chris Louie, remarked, "I find helping the sixth graders with problems a meaningful as well as enjoyable experience."

Another service organization, the Senior Advisory Board, also contributes to the school by helping the Senior Cabinet organize special events like the Senior Picnic and by nominating candidates for the Senior Polls. The 24 members of SAB were also selected through a careful process.

Jason Bass, the senior president, commented, "I think the SAB members have done a great job. They are willing to work hard and cooperatively, which has in turn helped the school a great deal."

Prometheans • CSF Life

SOMETHING EXTRA

One day in December:

"Hey did you make it?" a person asks as he passes a friend in the hall.

"Yeah, did you?"

"You know it, dude."

One day in February:

"Hey, when are sign-ups again?" someone yells across the senior homeroom.

"Tomorrow," the person at the front of the class responds.

"Oh, crud, I gotta get that done."

Two exchanges on two different occasions at two different times of the year, not necessarily by the same two people, but definitely about two different things. The conversation in December commemorates the anxiety some seniors went through in the process of being chosen for Prometheans, while the other represented the four days in February where seniors had to sign up to be a member of CSF Life.

Prometheans were asked to apply if they had a 3.5 grade point average or higher and a "B" or higher in citizenship. From there they were judged on leadership ability and service by committees of seven juniors, seven seniors, and seven faculty members. A total of twenty-six seniors were selected.

To be chosen for CSF Life, a senior must have been a member of CSF in three out of the four semesters possible during their sophomore and junior years, and must be a member for one of their senior year semesters.

When chosen, the senior graduates Gold Seal, or "with honors."

It's nice to have something extra on your diploma," commented Senior Tony Young.

DEMONSTRATING TALENT

Special Achievers

To recognize seniors worthy of special merit, the Titanian staff asked teachers to designate seniors who not only excelled in a certain subject area but also demonstrated sincere interest and dedication.

Three broad areas of achievement were recognized: the humanities, including English, foreign languages, and journalism; the sciences, including mathematics and lab sciences; and the fine arts, including art, drama, music, and forensics.

Humanities

Representing the English Department, co-chairs Mrs. Peggy Mabry and Mrs. Clare Kelm chose Yayoi Izumi for her "exceptional achievement in writing, depth of thought, and style;" and Mike Walters for his "delightfully satiric wit" as the English elective honorees. Rod Reynolds and Kathleen Shanahan were chosen as the two Advanced Placement honorees. Rod's "unique approach to literary study coupled with demonstrated excellence in writing" placed him among the special achievers. Kathleen was chosen because of her achievement in the National Council of Teachers of English (NCTE) writing contest and her "exceptional ability to think creatively and critically." Along with Kathleen Shanahan, Jarrod Neal was commended for his placement in the NCTE writing contest.

Mrs. Kristen Koiles, French instructor, cited Kathleen Shanahan as the most outstanding French student. She commented that receiving a "5" on the AP test was a rare score to receive from the French professors.

Language Department chair Mr. Paul Shickle believed that Shirley Chang's devotion to Latin studies earned her a berth among the special achievers. Shirley has served as Junior Classical League vice president during her junior and senior years. She has been actively involved in the Latin Club, demonstrated by her going to past state and national conventions.

Mr. Robert Lutes, Spanish teacher, designated Jackie Chang, Andrea Pott, and Rod Reynolds because of their continuous involvement in Spanish. Mr. Lutes thought that Jackie was "one of the most outstanding students with whom I have worked in 22 years as a educator." Both Rod and Andrea traveled to South America between their junior and senior years as AFS students, giving them a chance to speak as "natively" as possible. Mr. Lutes concluded, "Bravo to all three!"

Publications advisor Mrs. Lou Ann Fuentes, acknowledged the four co-managing editors for their devotion to journalistic activities. Kathleen Shanahan and Lina Song were the editors of the 1987 Titanian, and Jackie Chang and Tony Young were the editors of Titan Shield.

Math and Science

Mr. Kent Hartman, Math Club advisor, chose Jackie Chang and Kathleen Shanahan to reward them for their outstanding performance in the Math Club. Both were strong contributors to the Bay Math League contests as a result of their "consistently high scores." Mr. Hartman cited that Jackie and Kathleen helped the Math Club by "recruiting other talented students."

Biology instructor Mr. Gordon Peterson picked Jackie Chang, Loren Chen, and Andrew Hwang because of their interest in human biology. The Committee for Advanced Science Training (CAST) selected the three to do summer research. Jackie studied immunology at the City of Hope; Loren worked in the field of immunochemistry at USC; and Andrew researched neurophysiology at USC.

In chemistry, instructor Miss Cyndi Chubbuck chose Jackie Chang, Kathleen Shanahan, Kara Wright, and Tony Young for their notable efforts in chemistry. Kathleen, Kara, and Tony all were admitted to the selective USC Summer Honors Program where Kara and Tony took a class in the physiology of sports. Kathleen was honored because of her unusual accomplishment of earning a "5" on the chemistry AP test, which is considered by Miss Chubbuck to be the most difficult of all the AP's.

Physics teacher Mr. Scott Cameron commented that the exceptional ability of Jackie Chang, Andrew Hwang, Yayoi Izumi, and Kathleen Shanahan was worthy of merit.

Fine Arts

Mrs. Joanne Connor, art teacher, honored Leslie Wallen and Henning Zieger for their dedication to art.

Mr. Paul Clopper, chairman of the Drama Department, mentioned Chris Fastnow, Keith Forman, Cindy Ralphs, and David Shofner for the four years each of them has devoted to drama. The four have been involved in Thespians as actors, actresses, or directors. Mr. Clopper summed up that "all four were hard-working, dedicated, and talented."

Mr. Thomas Murie, Music Department chairman, selected Sarah Katz, Miyo Miura, and Seth Presant because of their continuous achievement in music. Sarah has been an "outstanding drum major and has won many awards in Southern California for the abilities." Miyo was honored for her selection to the All-Southern California Honor Band in 1986 and 1987, and her All-State Honor Band selection in 1987. She toured Europe in the summer of 1986 as a member of the American Honor Band. Seth has served as the captain of the drum line and was an "outstanding percussionist." He has also been involved in many musical groups.

Mr. King Stuart, speech coach and NFL advisor, praised Jackie Chang, Heidi Chen, Shannon Pecora, and Jason Tsai for their involvement in speech and debate. Jackie "made the final round in the National Qualifying Tournament in 1986," and Heidi, Shannon, and Jason were all State Finalists in speech competition.

Each year, most juniors take the Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Test. Those who perform extremely well on that test become National Merit Semi-Finalists. At that stage, the semi-finalist completes an application form and an essay. If accepted, the candidate becomes a National Merit Finalist. The College Board selected Jackie Chang, Chris Fastnow, Rod Reynolds, Kathleen Shanahan, and Tony Young as members of this elite group.

Congratulations

"Utilizing our characteristic strengths, we members of the Junior Cabinet look forward to planning some fun activities for the junior class!" exclaimed Jim Tsai, junior treasurer. Initiating and organizing many events, this year's Junior Cabinet combined their talents and worked as a unit for the betterment of the Junior Class. Beginning the year with the organization of the Junior Advisory Board, the large turnout of juniors exhibited the incredible support that the students had in their class. Most of their enthusiasm was converted into much needed help in preparation for Homecoming. Along with the homecoming event, the ever popular junior directory "brought in sale profit even before it was sold, because of ad sales," commented vice president Susan Kunzman. Most proceeds, from junior sponsored events, went to the preparation for the consummate event of the year, the Junior Prom.

Volunteering RELIEF!

Often accused of being self-centered, greedy, and snobby, today's teenager is an apparent egotist. Breaking out of this stereotype emerges a new kind of youth who sacrifices his time in order to help others . . . without being paid. Many SMHS students have volunteered their time, talents, and efforts for a cause that they believe in. This service oriented attitude expresses a true sense of hospitality as students may be seen helping as candy-stripers and National Charity Club members. Michael Wang, a recent volunteer at the Huntington Memorial Hospital, described the experience as "an opportunity to get to know myself better."

Volunteering is an extracurricular activity that no club, sport, or cabinet position can offer. The idea of being able to give a part of oneself for the benefit of others is a truly satisfying experience for the volunteers involved.

P Sophomore Cabinet PLANNING

According to the Sophomore Class Cabinet, all of the members put much effort into emphasizing more class spirit for sophomore activities. Juliandra Hamilton, sophomore social chairman, commented, "We worked well together throughout the year."

The first event of the year was building the annual homecoming float at Cris Gilmore's house for the parade and competition between the classes. The cabinet decided to try a new fundraiser by selling Lifesaver lollipops to raise needed money. They also planned the traditional Rivalry Day events which took place in February.

All the members of the Sophomore Cabinet agreed that one of their main goals was to achieve more class spirit. Sophomore Class President Emilie Kerckhoff also added that she wanted "to make the homecoming float successful and have a profitable fundraiser that would benefit her class."

Maneuvering through the faculty parking lot, Mary Marshall works on her driving skills. Many sophomores were excited because they were able to get their licenses this year.

Driver's License REVVING UP

The privilege of owning a driver's license is something that every teenager looks forward to. The freedom to be able to drive wherever and whenever you want is something long-awaited by the sophomore class. As fifteen-year-olds going on sixteen, the idea of just being able to drive in a car without a parent seems very exciting and tempting. "At first, I would make up places to go just so I could drive the car," remarked sophomore driver Marty Willhite. With the excitement of a "sweet sixteen" comes a trip to the Department of Motor Vehicles, where a license can be obtained if one has already had a driving class to get a permit and passed the test. The license brings a new array of responsibilities, and the rules of the road become part of daily life. Amy Okum commented, "You're free and you don't have to depend on your parents. It also makes you feel older; it's really exciting!"

Cabinet FUN TIMES

The all-girl cabinet achieved most of their goals this year and had a fun time doing it. Overall, the goals were to enjoy themselves, create more spirit, and to make everything work out just as planned. Of course, there were problems, but the five girls had expected the jobs to be hard.

There were many reasons why the girls joined cabinet. First of all, they thought the added responsibilities would be good for them. "I think being on cabinet this year will be beneficial for the years to come," Alison Cayo predicted.

Other reasons included the desires to be active, to meet new people, and to help the freshman class. These reasons were the incentives to undertake the hard job that lay ahead of them. However, they enjoyed being on the cabinet despite the hard work. Kim Furuta noted, "I really had fun and liked helping our class."

Rolling down Huntington Drive, the freshmen float attracts attention. John Chan, the designer, controlled the movements of Charlie Brown and Lucy.

Freshman Float BUILDERS

Freshmen gathered at Eric Chen's house on October 4, the first day of the float building. Since the theme was the Peanuts gang, the freshmen decided to have Charlie Brown kicking a football which Lucy pulls away as he is kicking, while Snoopy on his doghouse and Woodstock overhead enjoy the scene. The freshmen really enjoyed building a float for the first time. When asked how he felt about helping build a float Jason Giddings answered, "It was great. I wish I could have done more." Another freshman, Sally Wang, stated, "It was fun and inspiring, and I learned a lot." "I enjoyed it very much. I am glad we had a chance to work together as a team," remarked Evan Harris. Betty Tse added, "We worked very hard on the float and we finished it on time." These ninth graders didn't care so much about winning as having a chance to participate.

Adjustments FITTING IN

"Our whole class should be really proud that we all made it through the entire year," remarked Tracy Chiu. "High school is a lot more fun because we are able to participate in a lot of school activities, like clubs." Freshmen were able to participate in a variety of activities other than the usual academic ones. From Science to Latin, Cosmopolites to Math, Cookies Galore to Art, clubs and organizations invited interested students to apply. Many clubs offered the freshmen a chance to help serve the school, while others exposed students to a variety of other interests. Many freshmen took advantage of the opportunity to join clubs in order to meet new people. "I got to meet a variety of sophomores, juniors, and seniors when I joined Math Club," recalled Kristina Yonei. "I am happy that I got to associate with upperclassmen. It's more fun than only knowing kids in our grade."

School District • Administration

OPTIMISM FOR FUTURE

Despite the difficulties facing the school district, a positive attitude continued to permeate the atmosphere. It is true that due to the financial situation, many cutbacks were made. There was no librarian or district nurse. Class sizes were larger than ideal, and students used outdated textbooks. Also, teachers were unable to attend conferences to update their knowledge and skills. However, Superintendent Dr. David Brown felt that morale among faculty was good, parents were supportive, and the district was doing "remarkably well under the circumstances."

The school district encountered much publicity due to financial problems and racial relations. Mr. Jack Rose, SMHS principal, commented that racial relations have greatly improved because Asian students have attained the English skills necessary to break down barriers, and their parents have become more involved in the school. Although the publicity was mostly positive, Mr. Rose expressed his desire for emphasis on the excellence of the schools rather than the problems.

Committed to this excellence, SMHS administration pursued three types of goals: instructional, administrative, and extracurricular. Instructional goals included workshops on "critical thinking strategies," refinement of the visual arts curriculum which resulted in new art electives, and a continuation of the examination of the various ways of learning and teaching. Also, the administration took steps in helping the departments develop "specific learning tasks" in areas of weakness to improve California Assessment Program test scores, and in starting a new drug abuse program in physical education classes together with Parent Alert. Administrative goals called for new desks and the refurbishment of rooms among other things. Regarding extracurricular activities, the administration worked closely with ASB on cultural projects and promoted the involvement of service clubs in community and school related tasks.

On the district level, the School Board, which possesses "ultimate responsibility" for the entire direction of the district, set up similar goals. According to Dr. Gary Richards, assistant superintendent of instructional services, the Board worked on a "vision statement" which directed the efforts of the group and covered the main areas which needed to be dealt with. Basically, the "vision" of the School Board included such aspects as bettering the quality of the already excellent instructional program, enhancing the working environment in order to recruit and retain the best faculty and staff, improving the schools physically, and gaining even more community involvement. The district also formed a fiscal planning group to deal with the financial dilemmas.

Due to this type of planning, Dr. Richards was optimistic about the future of San Marino schools. Mr. Rose remarked in the words of writer Norman Cousins that "none of us know enough to be a pessimist," indicating that "things are always changing" and that the situation could improve.

He assured that the administration is "here for the kids . . . here to provide the best education they can" and that the parents greatly contribute to the high quality of the schools.

Supported by an optimistic administration and parents who care, it looks as though San Marino can look forward to continued excellence.

New Faculty MOTIVES

The administration added five new teachers to the faculty staff. Among them ran a high level of motivation to help students learn as much as possible. Mr. Hartman wanted to "turn a lot of kids onto math and maintain a first rate math club." Mrs. MacArthur's goal was to "increase people's awareness of the Hispanic culture" through sharing her "love of the Spanish language." She also hoped that her students would "have a good knowledge and proficiency in the Spanish language by the end of the course." Mrs. Crouch applied for her job because "this district offers the opportunity for students to learn word processing." Mr. Zeman and Mrs. Biscard both decided to come teach here because of its "high academic standards." Evidently these teachers are motivated by the desire to provide their students with a superior education.

Faculty DEVOTION

The faculty at San Marino High School take a certain pride in their profession. Many of the teachers have devoted a great deal of their time and effort to their jobs. What, then, is the reason? Mr. Gordon Peterson, biology teacher, remarked, "I like the students because not only are they hardworking, but they handle their tasks in a mature way." Furthermore, Mr. Peterson stated, "The diverse nature of the student body further enhances the quality of education." "Unlike other schools," he added, "San Marino faculty members have remained stable and still find teaching enjoyable." Others who share the same opinion include Mr. Paul Shickle, Latin and Spanish instructor, who expressed his enjoyment in "helping teenagers grow and mature." Both Mr. Peterson and Mr. Shickle have taught in San Marino High School for 30 years, a mark that shows their true devotion to teaching.

BRIGHT FUTURES

Searching for information about selected colleges, Senior Jason Tsai peruses the most recent college catalogs. The College and Career Center also provides older catalogs which students can check out.

"The College and Career Center is a place that provides information concerning colleges and careers which you are interested in," revealed Mrs. Carol Bishop, the College and Career Center director. Because the center "recognizes that students will likely need jobs to support themselves in college," it offers different programs which equip students with job skills and additional knowledge about different careers. One such program is Operation Shadow, which provides juniors and seniors a chance to learn more about the profession of their choice. On the morning of February 26, these students "shadowed" a professional in their chosen career in order to explore that particular field in depth. The Regional Occupational Program classes also give students a head start in choosing a career. These classes are taught on campus, and they provide students with certain job skills. At the conclusion of these classes, students receive certificates with a list of skills they have acquired. The certificates can help students apply for jobs because they show the skills that the students have learned. Some students find job openings by contacting Mrs. Cathy Mencer, a College and Career Center assistant who works with job placement. Students can obtain school credit for an after school job.

The College and Career Center now provides information about colleges as well. Students can "take a mini tour of a college" by watching a laser disc of that college on the Learning Resources Network. They can also give a list of criteria to the Guidance Information System, which will then sort out a list of colleges that meet those criteria.

Mrs. Bishop and Mrs. Mencer welcome students to the College and Career Center for further information on different colleges and careers. "We want to help each student become a more complete person," concluded Mrs. Mencer.

Through a video, Junior Nelson Mills samples life at some Eastern universities. These videos provide the next best alternative to an actual visit.

The job openings' bulletin board offers some interesting options for Junior Randall Luo. Randall pursued one of these options and obtained the job.

Helping with the CSF fundraiser, Glenna Wei sells a candy bar to Ophelia Chen. This sale of Helen Grace chocolates provided money for scholarships to students who had served the club.

CSF ACADEMIC CLUB

Neither a social nor a service club, CSF is strictly an academic club for students who "exemplify excellent standards of scholarship and are recognized as worthy, good school citizens," revealed Mrs. Linda Wade, advisor.

At the beginning of each semester, several days were set aside for registration. Each grade had a number value. In order to become a member, one's grades had to add up to a certain number. P.E. did not count, and if a "D" or an "F" was received, the applicant was disqualified. A "B" average in citizenship was also required.

In the spring, all CSF members were required to sell Helen Grace chocolates. From the profits received from this sale, scholarships were given to students "who showed a need for financial assistance or to students who had served the club actively," informed Mrs. Wade. Richard Serrao, CSF secretary, added, "Around $2,000 was raised through the candy sales which provided scholarships for up to six people."

Elizabeth P. Shen, CSF treasurer, emphasized, "As CSF achievers, our goal is academic excellence. I sincerely hope this tradition will continue on through the following years, making CSF the home of the intellectual."

Showing concern for bettering the position of others, In-Touch, Red Cross, and Bike Club strove to achieve their clubs' goals. In-Touch, a group of student counselors, provided a confidential counseling service for students on campus. Its purpose was to help students improve their communication skills in order to resolve problems they encounter.

A similar organization, Red Cross, offered its talents for the benefit of the community. Established in the '85-'86 school year, Red Cross members volunteered their services at the Pasadena Health Fair and at the Special Olympics. Other activities included the "Friendship Boxes" sent to Columbia and caroling at their services at the Pasadena Health Fair and at the Special Olympics. Another one of their contributions was the assemblage of "Friendship Boxes" containing soap, toothpaste, and other everyday items which were sent to Columbia. Caroling at Christmas was another highlight of their year.

Bike Club, headed by Mr. Jon Imamura, set out on various bicycle outings with its members. Some of their destinations included Oak Grove, Flaky Jones, Mt. Sac, and Golfland. Bike Club's purpose was to provide a fun way to improve each member's conditioning while having a great time.

RESPONSIBILITIES

Omegas • Amicians

"It was really fun being in Omegas because we enjoyed helping our school and community," explained Mary Marshall and Adina Turchin. Members of both the Omegas and Amicians, two all-girl clubs that serve the campus, faculty, and community, found different reasons for being in the organizations. Wan-Ting Huang, an Amician, stated, "I really enjoyed preparing for the Christmas Dance." The Omegas put on the first Fifties Dance, which was a school fund-raiser. Besides the two dances, both clubs achieved in other special areas. One of them was visiting classes for the deaf children at Granada School, which the Omegas accomplished. The Amicians participated in the substance abuse program which was held in spring. They are also in charge of the Big-Little Sisters association. "This year we are all working together to make our service club's purpose more evident to our community," said Ann Comegys, the treasurer of Amicians.

Interact • Zethusians SERVICE CLUBS

Interact and Zethusians performed various services. According to Tony Young, treasurer, "The leadership took new strides in the areas of service and social events." Interact, a service club to the community and school, has been an offspring of the Rotary International since the early 60's. Interact sold programs during football games, and they traditionally put up the "Christmas House" on Huntington Drive. Interact continued to clean up SMHS, and they helped in the run for the handicapped by bringing water to the runners. Even though Interact had a very busy year, they had time for social events like their beach party. Applicants completed an application and were interviewed by Interact members.

Zethusians, the only coed service club on campus, has been active since 1971. Zethusians had bake sales, car washes, and the traditional Candy-Cane-Gram sale in December. The main goal for the Zethusians was to continue to support an Indonesian child named Misrati Sufyan through Save the Children. According to President Jeff Werden, "The outlook looks great for the Zethusians if enthusiastic students continue to participate." Qualifications for Zethusian membership included a 3.0 GPA and an earnest desire to participate.

SPIRIT LEADERS

Pep has been a tradition ever since this school opened. All these groups of girls worked hard to keep the school spirit going.

The main function of the pep officers was to support the school in games and other activities, such as Homecoming. They organized all of the pep activities and kept track of all the different pep groups. On Valentine's Day, they had a carnation sale. As emphasized by Ann Comegys, pep secretary, "Pep is a lot of work, but a lot of fun. It's definitely worth it."

Everyone has seen the countless number of signs in the central patio throughout the year. The Pep Reps were the ones that painted them. All Pep Reps were also required to be at every football game and other events to cheer. They also decorated the central patio at Homecoming, and were in charge of the new pep party. A general comment among all the Pep Reps was that, "the people need more spirit!"

To make the flag squad, the six girls were judged by students and cheerleaders from other schools and then elected in the Pep elections. The main purpose of Flag was to support school activities and to perform. Other than performing, Flag also took charge of the flowers for all the Varsity players for Homecoming. Flag was really devoted. As Kirsten Salo commented, "Our time and dedication really show in our performance."

Song worked hard to be different. They tried to add original performances to the rallies, like their Egyptian dance for the Halloween rally. Song also was traditional in supporting school spirit. They attended and supported school activities and were in charge of the Homecoming dinner.

As Christine Edwards emphasized, "We're continually trying to improve the Pep reputation through consistent performances and support."

Acting as a cowboy and cowgirl, Alyson Seden and Leigh McGilvray perform in the Halloween rally.

Varsity • J.V. • Frosh Yell YELL SUPPORTS

Varsity Yell, J.V. Yell, and Frosh Yell spent much of their time cheering for athletes. Each squad supported different levels of sports. However, they also worked together with the other squads to support the whole school.

One similarity between these three squads was the fact that at pep rallies they performed chants without music. They spent a lot of time practicing their routines and cheers for the pep rallies and games. Grace Wang, a J.V. member, stated, "Our routines were very creative with the girls performing flips and jumps."

Varsity Yell decorated the stands for Homecoming and made the rooter cards which the spectators held up. J.V. Yell helped sell Homecoming buttons and calendars to raise money which they used to support different activities. Frosh Yell supported the Frosh football team by painting cups and giving them to the players at Homecoming.

Delivering team homes, which used to be a major job for the cheerleaders, was abolished from the cheerleaders' schedules because it was too much work. Furthermore, they found it hard to find transportation to get them to the homes of the athletes. However, the cheerleaders were kept busy with the rallies, Homecoming, cheering at the games, and "being representatives of the school," as Mr. Jon Imamura, pep advisor, emphasized.

In November, Disneyland invited the Marching Band to perform in the Disneyland Parade. This was the second year in a row that SMHS participated.

Being part of the band takes a lot of concentration, as Paul Ma, David Wang, and Sean Greiner display. Marching Band contributed entertainment to half times during the football season.

Concentrating on their routine, Susan Liu and Emily Kuo perform during half time at a football game. Being underclassmen, they will be returning next year to be a part of the Color Guard again.

As drum major of the Marching Band, Senior Sarah Katz leads the band. Sarah has been the drum major for three years.

Marching Band • Color Guard MUSICAL MAGIC

"Get with the program!" Color Guard and Winter Guard instructor Mr. Thomas Vendrola directed his team during their numerous practices for their performances. Heidi Chen, a senior on the team, described Mr. Vendrola as "an incredible instructor." She added, "As a devoted young professional, he can teach not only techniques but also how to appreciate the art of flagworks." Emily Kuo, a new member of the team, considered the team "fun, exciting, and challenging." Along with other members, Emily emphasized "the good learning experience of dance."

Since 1956 the Marching Band has supported and represented the school. Recently the flag line developed into the Color Guard with the addition of the rifle and saber line. The Marching Band provided music for football games, rallies, and parades, accompanied by the Color Guard. Representing the school, the Marching Band and Color Guard performed as a unit. The band has placed first at the La Habra Field Tournament every year except one since 1978. Other accomplishments included placing second at the Los Angeles County Fair in the Best of the Bands Competition and placing third in the Glendora Christmas Parade. Mr. Tom Murie, the band director, pointed out that "the future looks promising. While many bands seem to get smaller, we are maintaining our size. Even though the band is serious, unusual things always happen!"

Concert Band • Orchestra SOUNDING CLEAR

Both Concert Band and Orchestra helped students expand their knowledge of music by playing in concerts and festivals. The Temple City Festival recognized Concert Band for its excellence last year. This year, during fourth and fifth periods, Concert Band prepared for its various performances. These performances consisted of the Christmas and Spring concerts along with a District Festival in April. Concert Band also sent some members to All Southern California Honor Band and All State Honor Band and to Solo and Ensemble Festivals. With dedication the members of Concert Band worked long hours. As David Edo said, "We strove for perfection."

Orchestra, starting with eight string players in 1981, grew to fifty players in the '86-'87 school year. Southern California Orchestra Judges recognized SMHS's Orchestra as a superior orchestra. Orchestra met during zero hour where members rehearsed for different concerts and festivals such as the Christmas Concert and the trip to Disneyland along with the Southern California School Band and Orchestra Association Festival. This year the California Music Educators Association chose Orchestra to play at its Convention. "The increased size of Orchestra allowed us to play a larger variety of pieces," commented violinist Tom Chiu. President Sarah Katz agreed, "It really was exciting being part of a group that has grown so much."

Taking a break, Seth Present and Yvonne Tsai enjoy their time off. Both Seth and Yvonne were in the percussion section of Concert Band.

At the Christmas Concert the string section of Orchestra receives its cue to play. Orchestra performed in many other concerts and festivals throughout the year.

Math Club • NFL TEAMS COMPETE

"Even though this is a rebuilding year, students have done well, and we still pose a threat to our league," commented Mr. King Stuart, the advisor of the speech and debate team. Belonging to the National Forensic League, the team continued its tradition of competing against other schools. Students receive their membership for the NFL by earning points at speech tournaments. The team, which has won the League Sweepstakes for the last eleven years, travelled to other high schools to compete on Thursday and Friday afternoons, as well as on Saturdays.

Another competitive organization is the Math Club, which again offered lunchtime tests to club members. The members also had a chance to qualify for the math team by taking placement tests and scoring high on them. The math team, consisting of about fifteen students, went to other high schools and competed in Bay Math League Competitions. Some club members also participated in college field days at Occidental, Pomona, and Cal Poly San Luis Obispo. Unlike the NFL, a new advisor, Mr. Kent Hartman, led the Math Club. Mr. Hartman hopes "to build more participation in competitions in the future." According to Vice President Kathleen Shanahan, Mr. Hartman has "provided weekly lectures that have helped the team greatly."

The NFL and Math Club are two competitive clubs which can be fun and worthwhile. "Getting involved in NFL was a lot of fun and a rewarding experience which also looks good on college applications," concluded Senior Keith Forman, an NFL member.

AFS • Cosmopolites TWO CULTURE CLUBS

Cosmopolites and AFS, two clubs that are interested in foreign cultures, have participated in several activities this year. Basically, they are made up of students who want to promote cultural understanding. In order to be a member of Cosmopolites, one must know or have taken a foreign language class. As for AFS, they should have an interest in international things and people.

This year, AFS sponsored an exchange student named Ivonne Gonzalez from Colombia. Her stay in the U.S. lasted from August until July. During this time, she stayed with Senior Chris Fastnow and her family. Ivonne revealed, "Colombia is not really like what they show it as in the movies. It is a great place!" Ivonne participated in different activities such as the International Student Delegation, and the YMCA Youth and Government program.

Other activities were a showing of the movie "Himalayan Adventure" of Gordon Wiltsie, and candy sales. Andrea Pott, AFS president, expressed, "This year has really been going well. We had a lot of activities planned."

Cosmopolites, a club started years ago, planned various activities. One of the first was the Cosmograms sale. Near the Christmas season, they supported the Orphanage Drive that raised about two thousand dollars. They brought Christmas wrapped boxes to put the food in. Lina Song, Cosmopolites president, commented, "The Orphanage Drive was a success, thanks to the outstanding participation by the club members and the conscientiousness of the whole student body." Other activities included international banquets and trips to Olvera Street and the Griffith Observatory.

Thespians • Science Club • Latin Club GROWING CLUBS

Similar in their demand for intense commitment, Thespians, Science Club, and Latin Club all found that they had a large number of members this year. Serving a unique position in the community providing entertainment, Thespians produced plays for the enjoyment of San Marino citizens. Their productions included The Dining Room and A Prisoner of Second Avenue. There was a ten percent increase in membership despite the requirement to contribute at least one hundred hours of participation in productions to join the club.

Science Club made its first appearance on campus this year. Designed by President Paul Ma, the club participated in numerous science competitions including the Santa Barbara Science Fair. Science Club's ideas included trips to JPL and the Cabrillo tide pools. Watching the video of Back to the Future was another option for members.

Latin Club, headed by President Nelson Mills, participated in a range of activities this year. Gatherings included the birthday party of Latin poet Virgil, a trip to the Getty Museum, the Latin State Convention, and the spring party. Advisor Paul Shickle commented, "Involvement in Latin is on the uprise again as it is in the entire nation." Members were required to be concurrently enrolled in Latin. The club's donation of $100 to the Orphanage Drive gave evidence of their generous attitudes and enthusiastic spirit.

Juniors David Hulting and Kim Moore perform in "The Dining Room". This was Thespians first production of the year.

M ^{Cookies • FACCCC}MMM . . .

"Cookies Galore bakes cookies for service and for members to enjoy eating them," commented the vice president of Cookies Galore, Heather Spencer. Of all the clubs on campus, Cookies Galore and FACCCC are the only clubs whose members eagerly consume edible creations. Cookies Galore is a club that is open to all students interested in baking cookies for fun and for fundraisers. Although old FACCCC members choose the next year's members, the club still shares the same culinary interest as Cookies Galore participants. This year, Cookies Galore served the school by providing refreshments for the Coronation Ball, while FACCCC raised funds which would be partially used for the annual Christmas reunion party. Cookies Galore had nearly seventy members enrolled in the club. FACCCC initiated Mr. Jack Rose and Mr. Chuck Johnson as advisors for their meetings; thus, the student and faculty involvement reflected more interest in the cookie organizations. "I'm glad to see so much enthusiasm for the clubs, and I hope that the excitement and activities continue next year," stated Cookies Galore member Denise Dea.

Ski • Lettermen • JAB SPIRITED CLUBS

The Ski Club, Lettermen's Club, and Junior Advisory Board were clubs that performed unique functions at SMHS.

Ski Club continued the tradition of the after-Christmas ski trip. The Ski Club skied at Alta, Snowbird, and Brighton in Utah. The trip consisted of a round trip bus ride to Utah and four days of skiing at various ski resorts. Senior Brian Clougherty stated, "The ski trip is a good program, and I hope it will continue in the future."

Lettermen's Club, a club organized to support sports, succeeded in raising money for new equipment. Lettermen's Club members had to have a varsity letter in at least one sport. The club was started to raise money to fund sport activities, to help sports purchase new equipment, and to recognize those active in school sports. Lettermen's Club traditionally sponsored the Freshman Basketball Tournament, and they raised money through the coke machines.

The Junior Advisory Board, a club especially for the Junior Class, worked in the concession stand during football games. They were also in charge of the junior float for the Homecoming parade. Club members had to fill out a contract, and they had to be willing to help the Junior Class with fundraisers such as car washes. Terence Ou, JAB secretary, commented, "We succeeded in having everyone participate in JAB activities, and this helped to make this the best year our class has had."

During float building, Juniors Jeff Cushman and Tara Sweeney concentrate on painting. JAB members were in charge of organizing the junior float for the parade.

Attending a meeting at lunch, Seniors Jeff Werden and Loren Chen, and Junior Scot Beidelman discuss new events. CRC often met at lunch to plan their magazine and analyze articles and poems.

Delicately putting details on her stained glass project, Sophomore May Kay concentrates on her work. May also participated in Art Club and dance class.

Dance•Art•CRC EXHIBITING CREATIVITY

Dance, art, and writing are opportunities for a person to express his own creativity and individual style. The Dance Company showed their creativity on several occasions, yet their most significant display was during Dancetra, the annual spring production put on by the company on May 28, 29, and 30. Inspired by co-presidents Kristin Henry and Valerie Pappas and several other Cabinet members, the company danced their way through many functions, including the Weight Watchers Show and the first-ever Huntington Assembly. Aside from dancing, the girls had to maintain a C average academically, a B average in citizenship, and a B in dance. "All the hard work paid off when Dancetra finally came together!" exclaimed Juliandra Hamilton, dance treasurer.

Art Club also expressed its creativity, but in a different manner. Members, who took art classes, had in-class projects to express themselves, and took field trips to the Art Center, the J. Paul Getty Museum, and many other cultural art places. As president of the club, Sara Kennedy initiated a new office that would be responsible for photographs in order to design a photo album. In the future, the club hopes to encourage more people to become members, and make a new, more significant name for the club.

In addition to Dance Company and Art Club, Creative Writing Club, casually known as CRC, also exhibited creativity. Under their advisor, Mrs. Barbara Barbarics, the club achieved the publication of several issues of their magazine, The Keyhole. Through the magazine, CRC hoped to encourage potential writers to overcome barriers and express themselves with creativity and individuality. CRC also started the exchange journal, in which each member contributed a portion to a story. "We welcome anyone who likes to show one's creativity on paper," commented Dan Langlois, prose editor.

Titanian•Titan Shield RESPONSIBLE MEMBERS

Both journalism staffs, Titanian and Titan Shield, saw many changes in their respective publications. These changes were without precedent. The yearbook, under the supervision of co-managing editors Kathleen Shanahan and Lina Song, had new features and additional pages. The Titanian staff, by selling a record amount of ads, totaling over $16,000, was able to design more interesting division pages and to use more color.

Titan Shield also had a record amount of ad sales. With their increased budget, they published more eight-page issues. In the year's 12 issues, co-managing editors Jackie Chang and Tony Young allowed more additions to the newspaper, including cartoons by John Chan and Kenneth Huang, and scoreboxes on nearly every sports page. But the real twist to both publications was the three-month absence of their advisor, Mrs. Lou Ann Fuentes.

Mrs. Fuentes left early in the year to have a baby, and she did not return until mid-January. While she was out, both staffs faced challenges when trying to meet deadlines. For the yearbook staff, her absence was especially difficult since nearly two-thirds of the book had to be completed by the end of the first semester. Kathleen Shanahan commented that "everyone had to work together to compensate for her absence. It made us realize how important she was to the production of the yearbook." Clubs and organizations editors Adina Turchin and Iris Zanglis concurred that "there was a lot of pressure on us, but we learned a great deal." "Kathleen and I had to act not only as editors, but as teachers and advisors as well," Lina Song recalled.

The same feeling of unity was shared by members of Titan Shield. Jackie Chang disclosed that Mrs. Fuentes' absence "increased the responsibility of the entire staff."

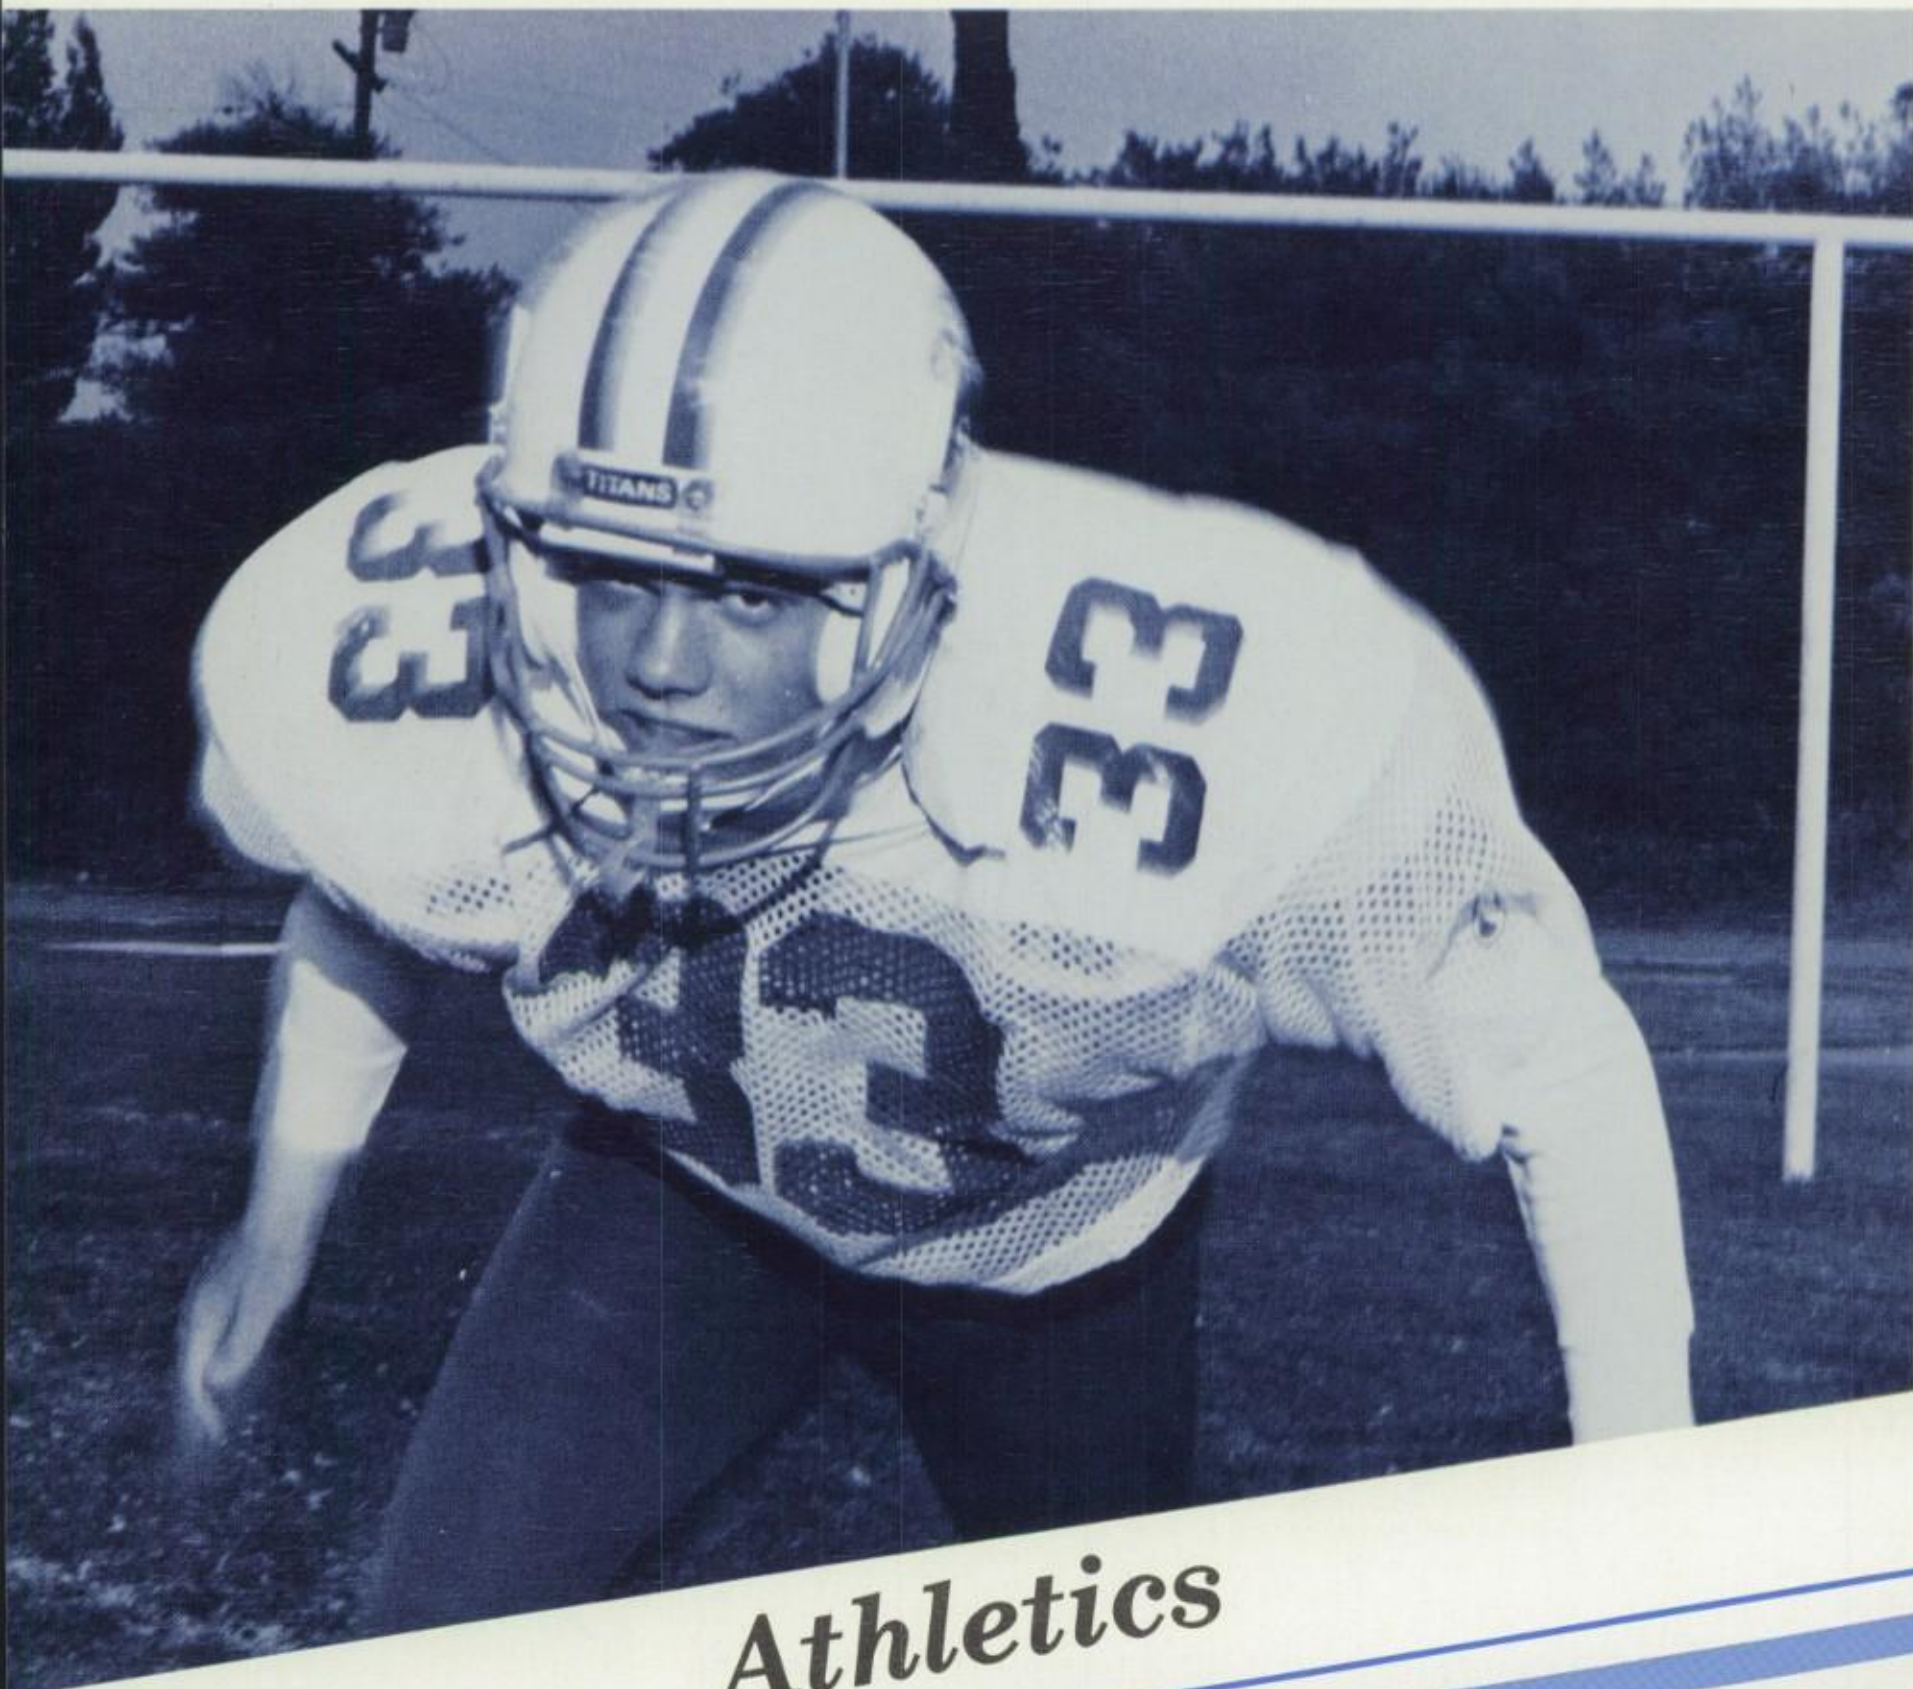

Even with the difficulties of having no advisor for most of the first semester, both staffs were relieved upon Mrs. Fuentes' return, and they valued the extra responsibility that they acquired.

WINNING SPIRIT

Varsity Football

"Lack of speed, size, and injuries to key players contributed to the team's overall record," stated Assistant Coach Loren Kleinrock. The team did strive to win, but the scoreboard lists seven losses out of nine games. Senior Greg Scharlach, who received honorable mention as linebacker and fullback, added, "We all tried hard but never really seemed to put things together."

Coach Kleinrock listed members who received special recognition. Senior John Bishop was awarded Most Valuable Player. Leading performers were: Junior Rich Adams, Most Improved; Senior Pete Wilson, All-League Honorable Mention; Senior Eric Swanson, second team offensive line; Senior Matt Atkinson, second team offensive line; Senior David Solomon, second team defensive back; and Senior Sean Linderman, honorable mention defensive end.

"Although the record was not good, the team played tough football. The games were usually close going into the fourth quarter, but we made too many mistakes to beat the good teams," lamented Coach Kleinrock.

David Solomon summed up the season objectively, "There's much more to football than winning, although it's nice, and I believe that everyone will agree with me when I say that the discipline, friendships, and fun we've had will be the aspects of football that will last in the team's memories."

CRUSHING BLOWS

Sophomore and Freshmen Football

Showing an incredible amount of potential, both the freshman and sophomore football teams ended their seasons with impressive accomplishments. Heading the frosh team was new coach Jon Crowley, a former student at San Marino. As they headed for a victory over Temple City in the final minute of the game, Crowley yelled excitedly that it was the "first freshman victory over the Rams in ten years!" Coach Crowley himself was a member of the frosh team a decade ago along with his assistant coaches, Matt Saver and Karl Mace, during that last Temple City win. Leading performers on the freshman team were Tyler Tripp, Jay Reynolds, and Keven Shanahan. Among the team members, Jon Crowley saw great potential for future sophomore players. Co-captains Jeff Dennis and Tyler Tripp helped weld the team into a hard-working unit. The players' determination and great attitudes added up to a terrific season.

Although their season began rather slowly, the sophomore team pulled through to a strong finish. In winning five of their last six games these J.V. players showed that they have a great future as varsity players in upcoming years. With an outstanding turnout of over forty players, Coaches Mickey McNamee and Bob Reed were able to send thirty or more players into every game.

A very physical defensive unit was anchored by linebackers Jeff Dolan and Mike Metcalf. Linemen Brad Simpkins and Rob Heckendorn proved to be formidable obstacles and the secondary was well patrolled by Tony Garcia and Ed Atkinson.

As the season progressed, the offense became more cohesive and productive. Andy Swanson, Joey Conzonire, George Hatcher, Rich Brennan, and Matt Kenyon all helped to create openings up front for tailback Robbie Santos's solid running. Jerry Dietrick frequently found his favorite receiver Dann Angeloff in key situations. All the players worked together to place San Marino second in league with an impressive 4-1 record.

WINNING TEAM

Varsity Water Polo

Under the leadership of Coach Jon Beierle and team captains Steve Adams and Eric Crabtree, the Varsity Water polo team headed for CIF. The worst moment for the team was their unfortunate loss to Cabrillo in the second round of CIF. Overall, San Marino came in second place in league standings. "This was due to a lot of hard work and a never-let-die attitude," commented Coach Beierle. Among the leading performers who contributed to the team were Eric Crabtree, the most valuable player; Alex Burlingame, who scored twelve goals out of twenty-three attempts throughout the season; and Steve Adams, who scored three goals against Montebello in CIF, which helped the team win the game. Mark Sakamoto, another leading scorer on the team, scored twenty-two goals, made fifteen steals, and made twelve assists. Eric Crabtree, Jon Apt, and Spencer Harris received special recognition in their appointment to the All-League First Team. Second Team All-League consisted of Beck Soderberg, while Greg Panner was appointed to Third Team All-League. Matt Johnson and Eric Boegh received honorable mention.

The team as a whole was considerably young compared to former teams. Juniors and sophomores made up the majority of the team. "The team's inexperience and youth showed at the beginning of the season when the team started with two wins and four losses. This can be attributed to a tough schedule and playing three 3A teams when we are a 2A team," explained Coach Beierle. Terence Ou commented, "It is true that we weren't together in our playing at the beginning of the season, but by the end we were all playing in unison."

Since the team was made up of such excellent individual team members, they were able to defeat South Pasadena, a long time rival, not just one time, but two times. "Everyone on the team put forth such an effort, that we all felt like champions," concluded Beck Soderberg.

As the ball comes speeding toward him, Ta-Lun Wu puts up his best defense in order to stop the ball.

GROWING UNITY

Frosh-Soph Water Polo

"The Frosh-Soph Water Polo team carried on the tradition of excellence and will play a big factor in next year's season," remarked Coach Burt Kanner. Although the team was denied the league championship because of a loss to South Pasadena, they still finished second and generally had "a great season." Due to the departure of four starting sophomores, the team was young and inexperienced at the beginning of the season. However the team, led by Sophomore Co-Captains Dan Apt, David Chenoweth, and Mike Wong, improved in every game, according to Coach Kanner. He also stated, "The sophomores and freshmen displayed growing unity and maturity as they worked together as a team." David and Mike were also named Most Valuable Players. "All of us worked hard," commented Mark Deetjen, a sophomore team member, "Even if we were not league champs, I'm proud of the whole team and their quest for victory." Coach Kanner thinks that the advancing sophomores will contribute greatly to the Varsity team next year. With freshmen like Jiro Bannai, who has a "dynamite arm," the future of the Frosh-Soph Water Polo team also looks very bright and promising. "We will be the team to beat next year," concluded Coach Kanner.

DESIRE TO WIN

Varsity • JV Volleyball

The JV Volleyball team sat on the bench and looked at the scoreboard. It was a 3-14 in favor of Rosemead. There seemed no way to win. Coach Cyndi Chubbuck looked at the first team she had ever coached and wondered if a "miracle" was possible. The girls were panicking. The miracle did occur. The JV team came back to win 16-14.

This miracle repeated itself during the thrilling game against South Pasadena. Again the team was down 2-10, and they came back to win 15-12.

"The strong desire of the players to improve their skills was a major factor in our team's play," said Coach Chubbuck about their third place in the final league standings. Because the team's vigor was high, some special awards were given. The Most Valuable Player, Joanna Clark, said, "We have tremendous potential in our team in that our improvement compared to last year's was great, and if we can keep this up, it's possible we can become number one."

Also having a good season, the Varsity Volleyball team enjoyed themselves while playing. Their secret was all-around team play. One example of their unity was beating the formerly undefeated Temple City in three straight games.

For the team's desire to win and their coordination, some members received special recognition.

Honorable Mentions went to Judy Antoci and Kirsten Salo. In All League, Lucy Antoci and Jodi Mount were on the first team; Kara Wright was on the second team.

"We really grew together from the beginning of the season," commented Most Valuable Player and Captain Jodi Mount.

CHAMPS AGAIN

Varsity Girls' Tennis

Once again the Varsity Girls Tennis team dominated the high school tennis scene by winning their second CIF Championship in a row. Inspired by team captains, Karin Tsai and Tricia DeSpirito, the girls had an undefeated season with many top rankings among them. Senior Linda Lee, who along with Tricia DeSpirito won her third CIF Championship, ranked first in the San Gabriel Valley, while Biljana Korac ranked a close second, and Roxy Protasovicki ranked an impressive fifth.

All of the girls played a very demanding game of tennis that required two and a half hours of strenuous practice a day. The saying "practice makes perfect" held true in the team's case as they had a winning streak that included winning the Mayfield Tournament for the seventh consecutive year. The team also agreed that the worst moment was when someone forgot the refreshments. The girls also played as doubles partners, which allowed friendships to grow.

"It was an awesome season when we won CIF!" exclaimed Katie Wood.

Slowly preparing to start her game, Senior Molly Farrar thinks about her next stroke. This was Molly's first year on the team.

Returning the ball to her opponent, Freshman Su-Lin Kong shows her technique. Su-Lin was one of two freshmen on the team.

Concentrating on a return, Senior Karin Tsai puts force in her shot. Karin was co-captain this year.

Gracefully hitting a fun pose, Junior Caryn Cranston takes a break from practice. Caryn has played tennis at the high school since her freshman year.

W Cross-Country & J.V. Girls' Tennis INNING YEAR

Preparing to serve the ball, Kim Furuta eyes her opponent. This was her first year on the team.

Cross-Country opened its season at the start of the school year along with J.V. Tennis, another fall sport. Both sports did well in their competitions.

Boys' Varsity Cross-Country won all their meets except three, which they lost to La Canada, South Pasadena, and Arcadia, while Girls' Varsity won all their games except one, which they lost to South Pasadena. Both teams placed second in league finals.

Team captains Diane Pettit, Erik Penn, Jeannie Young, and Jim Nida agreed that it was a good year.

Diane Pettit, Most Valuable Player, finished seventh fastest in all league competitions and was fifth in CIF Finals. Most Improved Runner, Sarah Schaus, commented, "The worst disappointment for the team was the numerous injuries."

J.V. Tennis also won all their games except one, which they lost to Monrovia. In the league finals, Stephanie Furuta, Most Valuable Player, placed first in singles. Megan Lin placed third in the same event, while Marlo Moore, another Most Improved Player, took fourth. In doubles, Tara Badie, Most Inspirational, and Mary Marshall, Most Points Earned, placed first. Alison Cayo and Leslie Jhung were third, while Meighan Henderson and Heather Smith took fourth.

"Tennis, as well as Cross-Country are proud of their achievements but are still trying to outdo themselves every year," stated Megan Lin.

'THE YO-YO EFFECT'

Varsity Boys' Basketball

"This team is different from any other that I have coached because of what I call the 'yo-yo effect,'" stated Coach George Arms. He added, "We could score twenty points in one quarter and only four or six in another." The specific factors which attributed to the team's overall record were "... the inability to make foul shots and poor shooting," according to Coach Arms.

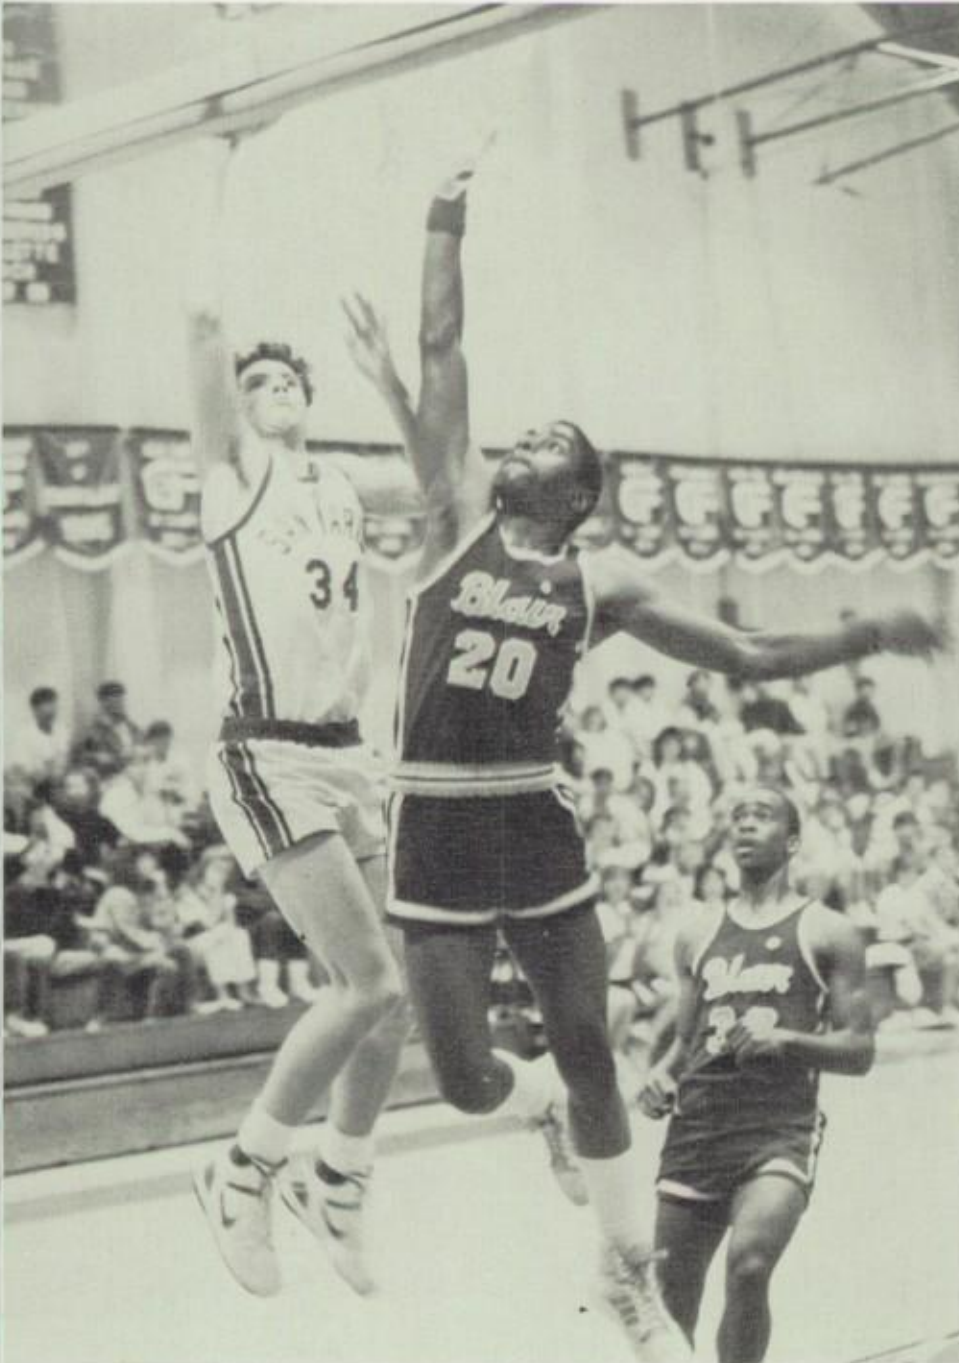

Coach Arms disclosed the names of those who received recognition for special accomplishments. Senior John Feters received Most Valuable Player at the Pasadena Poly Tournament and All-Tournament at the Pioneer Tournament. Senior Sean Liske was recognized for his outstanding thirteen rebounds. Sophomore Marty Willhite received All-Tournament at the Pioneer Tournament. Marty also led the team in foul shot percentage. Junior John Paul Paciorek led the team as point guard and in assists and steals.

Coach Arms commented, "We were very pleased in winning the Pasadena Poly Tournament and playing Alhambra for the championship at the Pioneer Tournament. Also, we were very disappointed in our league record — we thought we would make the play-offs."

Some of the players felt that the season could have been better.

Senior Tony Young concluded, "We were a good team, but we did not perform to our potential."

'AWESOME' TEAMS

J.V. • Soph • Frosh Boys' Basketball

Boys' Basketball on all levels had various records. J.V., Soph and Frosh teams all had different coaches. J.V. member Lou Tran claimed, "We were a good team, but we could have been awesome if we shot better." J.V. team captain was Chuck Heinemann. MVP was Greg Chapman. Coach Scott Cameron stated, "All of the players have improved," but Most Improved was Robert Shanahan. The Soph team had "a real good year," commented Cory Blossi. MVP David Kadin was nominated to participate in the San Gabriel All-Tournament team. Coach Tom Sawyer remarked that the main factor contributing to the teams' overall record was "hustle." Team Captain Bob Zimmer declared, "We had a short team, but we made up for it by being quick."

In Coach Robert Reed's eyes, the Frosh team was "more unpredictable than (his) other teams." Craig Miliias received special recognition by being chosen for the All-San Marino Tournament team. Overall, though, the teams were "awesome."

GOOD RAPPORT

"It's been a productive season," remarked J.V. forward Necia Stanford. "With J.V. Coach Joyce Johnson and Varsity Coach Ellen Hall, we've worked together well," agreed Necia and Varsity team captains Jodi Mount, Katie Ownbey, and Leslie Wallen. This year brought a few new and unique events to this season of "good rapport."

First, Coach Hall announced that she was expecting a baby. Caryn Cranston expressed that it "seemed hard for Coach Hall being pregnant and coaching ... but she fulfilled her commitment in helping us to be the best we could be ...". Another unique happening included Emilie Kerckhoff's appointment to varsity, when team guard Amy Okum could not play. "Varsity turned to J.V. for help," remarked Liz Stratford, "so we gave up our best teammate." "It was a challenge," said Emilie, to have the privilege of playing for Varsity. This gesture from J.V. portrayed the type of friendship shared between both teams. "It seemed like we were all one team," Emilie felt, "Each team supported each other."

A feeling of friendship pervaded among these two teams of friends. About varsity, Leslie commented, "We knew we had to work well as a team, and we did." Definitely it was a season of good rapport.

Aiming high, Katie Ownbey attempts a shot. This year Katie was one of the varsity team captains.

As teammate Jocelyn Rothbard looks on, Jodi Mount accepts a pass. Jodi scored 19 points against South Pasadena.

Positioned and alert, Senior Leslie Wallen prepares for the pass. Against Temple City she scored 12 points.

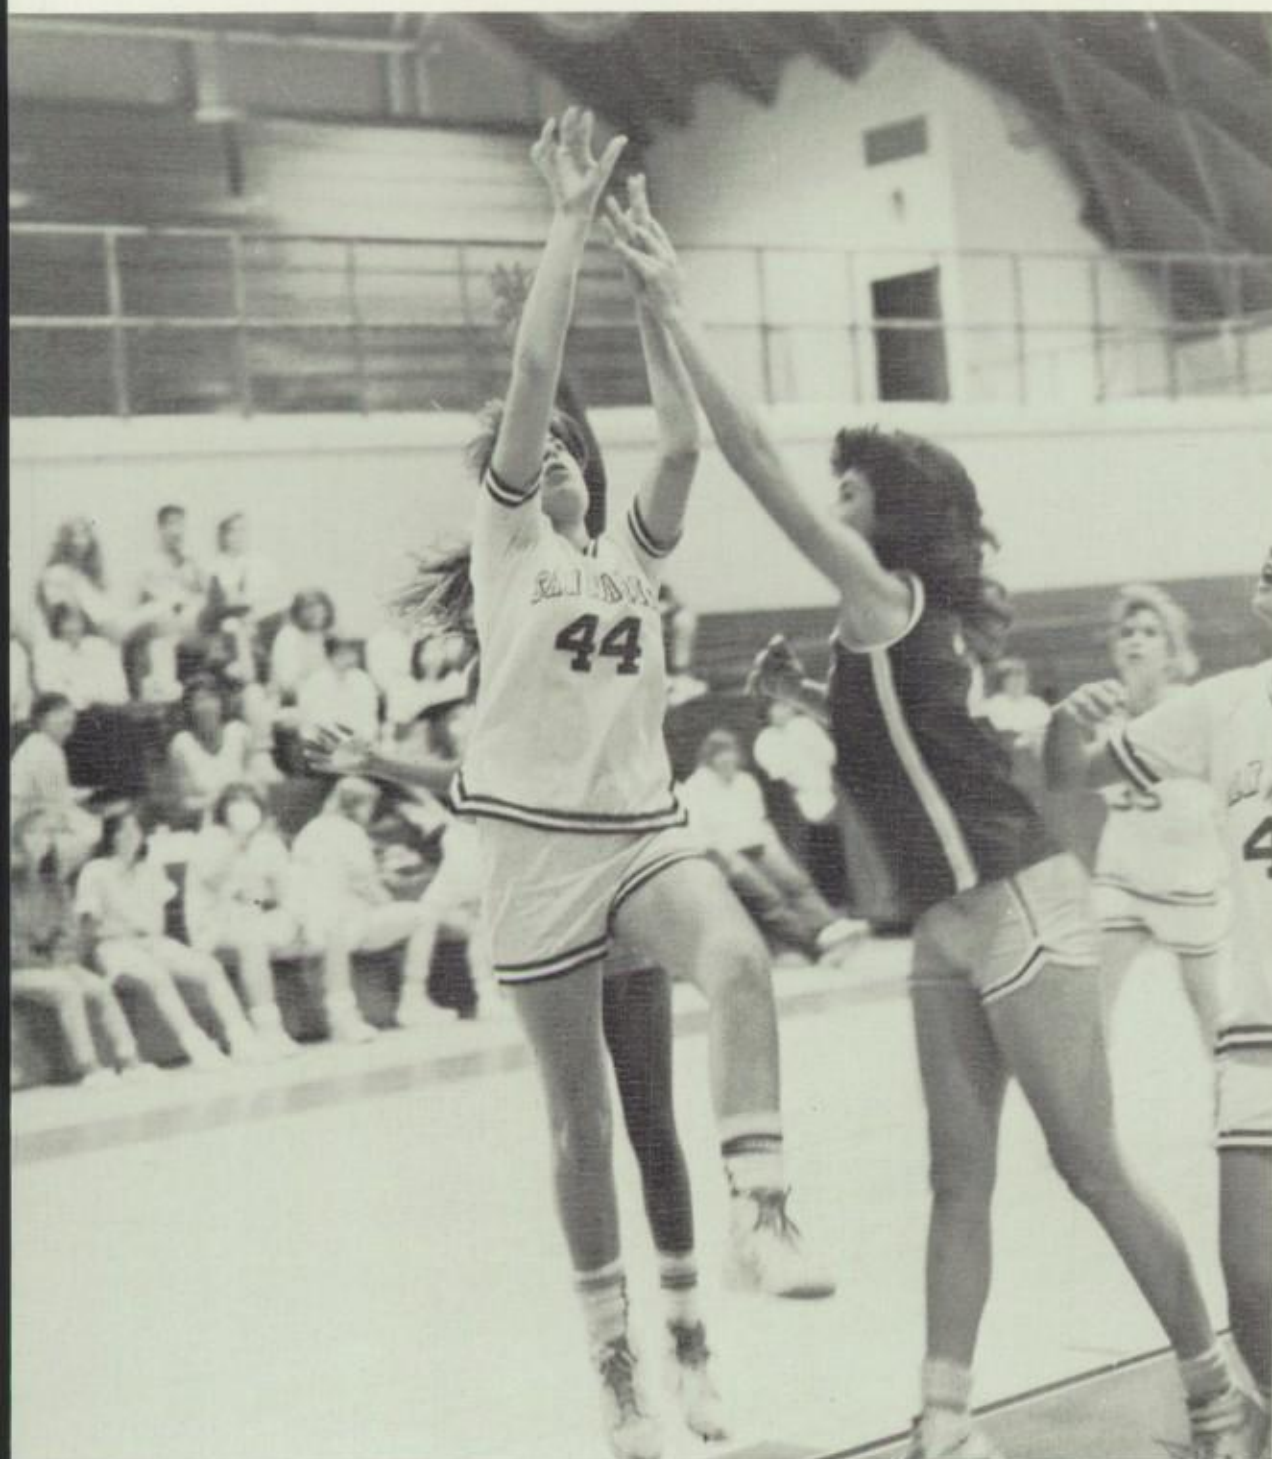

In the exciting game versus South Pasadena, Varsity leads in the third quarter. Final score was 70 to 36.

Varsity • J.V. Wrestling

According to Matt Harwich, a former San Marino High School student and new coach for the Varsity Wrestling team, both Varsity and J.V. Wrestling teams placed fourth in League. This was Matt Harwich's first year coaching wrestling. Senior Justin Cuccia explained, "The changing of coaches really disturbs the momentum of a good team." However, Justin went on to say, "It was a very valuable experience because we learned to work together as a unit."

Bill Maloney, the J.V. coach, said that the biggest thrill for the J.V. team was beating South Pasadena. The most exciting moment for the varsity was beating La Canada, who placed sixth in League. The J.V. team captains were Sophomores Darin Simmons, Po-Shou Su, and Sheldon Quan, while the Varsity team captains were Seniors Justin Cuccia, Matt Hoiby, and Mike Sohl. Mike Sohl was named Most Valuable Player.

Coach Harwich and Coach Bill Maloney agreed that the year was successful despite the fact that "many of the better wrestlers were young and lacked experience."

As a J.V. captain, Sophomore Po-Shou Su pins an Alhambra player. Alhambra High School proved to be a tough team.

SUPERIOR SKILLS

J.V. • Varsity Soccer

"Soccer requires a lot of speed, endurance, and foot coordination. It looks easy, but it takes much work," commented Varsity Boy's Soccer Coach Loren Kleinrock. The varsity and J.V. Soccer teams exhibited these skills as they dominated the Rio Hondo League during the winter season.

After holding the first place position at the end of the first round of league, the varsity team looked forward to making CIF. Coach Kleinrock praised his team saying that it was the "most skilled team" that he had coached. The team's overall experience also helped contribute to their success. Many of the players came back this year to play on the varsity team for their third year in a row.

The members of the team believed that they could reach CIF despite the extremely difficult level of competition. "The team looks forward to CIF because we know that we've got the talent. All we have to do is continue to work together, and we'll make it," stated Junior Jeff Cushman.

Like the varsity team, the J.V. team started their league games with a winning record. After five games, the team was undefeated. The J.V. members aspired to win the league title for the second year as an undefeated team. The players received an extra boost when some Varsity members joined the team to lend their experience. "What I really like about the team is that everybody works together; we're a unit," commented Sophomore Myron Scott. "The communication," added Sophomore Dann Angelos, "between the members is great."

'TOUGH MOMENTS'

VARSITY • JV GIRLS' SOCCER

Coach Gil Coss summed up the Girls' Varsity Soccer season when he said, "The team played very well against the stronger teams in our league this year. We would have been much more successful if we hadn't lost key players to injuries."

Despite the loss of these valuable players, the team performed well under the leadership of Senior captains Kirsten Salo and Laura Sanders in the defense and offense respectively. Goalie Kathy Salo commented, "This team had some tough moments. I think that it showed a lot of character by overcoming the majority of them."

Absences due to injury and illness handicapped the J.V. team this year as well. The team managed to have a winning record in spite of the sickness and "youth and inexperience," according to Coach Lesley Salo. She attributed the J.V. success to "great natural ability which gave this year's team the best record in the four year history of Girls' Soccer at San Marino."

THE WILL TO WIN

Varsity Boys' Baseball

"Double, triple, score for first," ordered Coach Michael McNamee during the many practices. The practice benefited because the team started the season with seven wins and one loss. According to Coach McNamee, this is "one of the best starts in ten years." Returning seniors who were leaders of the team were catcher Greg Scharlach and first baseman Eric Swanson. With the graduation of many players, new talent has risen into the ranks. Out of the nine starting positions, new members occupied five places. Junior player John Paul Paciorek commented, "We have a great pitching staff and also powerful hitters." For example, Sophomore Marty Willhite, who advanced from J.V. before the first game, started the season with an "impressive display of hitting," according to John Paul. Within a few games, Marty hit a home run along with many other hits to bring his batting average up to a .700 at the start of the season. Marty started at the shortstop position. John Paul revealed his talent as left fielder and pitcher. John also had the second highest batting average. Fellow classmates Ed Uriarte and Peter Richter also made their contributions. Starting at center field, Peter excelled at bat and in the outfield. Pitcher Ed Uriarte distinguished himself by starting with no losses on the mound. Along with returning players Greg Scharlach and Eric Swanson, Eric Klingensmith returned to the team as starting pitcher. Coach McNamee emphasized that Eric was "one of the best in the area." With the combined effort of both new and presiding players, the team made two comebacks over Temple City and South Pasadena to start league play.

John Paul declared, "I feel we have a good shot at winning Rio Hondo League."

Coach McNamee added, "The team wants to continue the tradition of baseball's CIF Play-off success."

Greg Scharlach tags an opponent before he has a chance to score. This is his second year as starting catcher.

T Frosh/Soph • J.V. Boys' Baseball OUGH DEFENSE

"The team is off to a strong start," commented the coach of the Frosh/Soph baseball team, Mr. Robert Reed. After playing six games, the team was undefeated. He attributed the team's winning streak to "good pitching, a solid defense, and big power hitters."

According to Coach Reed, one of the highlights of the season was winning the league opener: the team had a 7-3 victory against San Gabriel. "Everybody has something to contribute to the team," remarked Freshman Mike Wang, a player who Coach Reed called a fine defensive outfielder." Mike noted that the players' individual experience and the communication between the teammates aided the team greatly.

J.V. member Robbie Santos described this year as being "different" — a few of their scheduled practices were cancelled unexpectedly. Despite the cancellations, the team was later able to pull together and win their first double-header. "Good hitting and fielding are our team's strengths. We consistently get on base and advance other runners. Although our team started off slowly," continued Robbie, "we looked forward to playing well in our league."

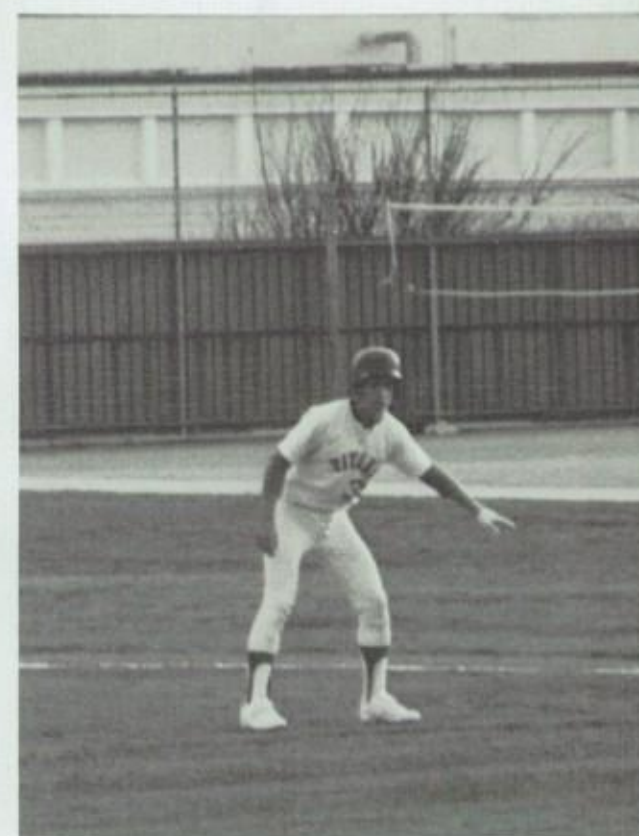

Kicking up a cloud of dirt, Junior Garrison Grund slides safely into third base. Garrison was one of the J.V. pitchers.

BRIGHT OUTLOOK

Varsity • J.V. Softball

The varsity team batted off to a good start with two consecutive victories in the beginning of the season. As second baseman Michelle Yacullo commented, "Team members are enthusiastic." Other players share the same view, including Kerri Hammill, who stated, "We're a strong team, and in the end I think it will show." Coach Joyce Johnson noted that the team has strong defense and talented players, including Kadie Ownbey, Caryn Cranston, Michelle Gastellum, and Kerri Hammill. Looking into the 1988 season, Coach Joyce Johnson predicted, "The team should be strong because we will only lose two players."

Under a new instructor, Coach Carolyn Bruns, the J.V. team followed the varsity's optimistic outlook to the season. Coach Carolyn Bruns expressed, "Team members are positive and excited," and "the team had a slow start, but it will improve as the players have more work on batting and more experience in playing games, which are all going to come in time." Outstanding members include Kelly Rettig, Emilie Kerckhoff, and Liz Stratford.

'POWER AND DEPTH'

Varsity • Swimming

"If the rest of the schools in the West San Gabriel Valley pooled their resources, they might be able to give San Marino boys' swimming a run for their money," stated the March 10, 1987 edition of the Pasadena Star-News.

The boys will go for their 14th consecutive Rio Hondo League championship and then take a shot at the CIF-Southern Section 3A Division title.

Team captains Eric Crabtree and Steve Adams are the only seniors. Crabtree is the Rio Hondo League's top returnee in the 200- and 500-yard freestyles, while Adams won league championship in the butterfly last year. Juniors John Cady and Mark Sakamoto probably rank as the top two boys, according to Coach Burt Kanner.

On the girls' side, they face stiff competition from La Canada, which finished runner-up to the Titans in the Rio Hondo League.

Junior Cindy Miller (200, 500 medley relay) is the star and will try to lead them to their fourth straight Rio Hondo League championship. "We rely on depth with the girls," Kanner disclosed. "That's how we did it last year. But we don't have the power like we do with the boys; we only have three girls on club teams." "Sophomore Devon Stage is coming along nicely in the 200 freestyle and butterfly, while Freshman Elizabeth Pinder has been fast enough to have won the league championship last year. Senior team captains Christine Edwards (100m backstroke) and Andrea Pott (distance freestyle) also should do well," commented Kanner.

"I've got a good team this year. I don't know if we can get in the top three this year, but we should be in the top five," concluded Coach Kanner. "Hopefully we will succeed."

NEW MEMBERS

J.V. Swimming

According to Coaches Jon Beierle and Kris Lewis, both the J.V. Boys' and Girls' Swim teams experienced a rebuilding year. Basically, both teams were young and inexperienced because they were mainly composed of new members. Through the season, though, both teams "matured and improved," commented Coach Lewis. The boys' J.V. team finished first at the Fountain Valley Relays. They also achieved third place at the CIF

Boys' Relays. Even though the J.V. girls' team didn't have such early-season success, they were still "very enthusiastic and hard-working," revealed Coach Lewis. "Some girls showed their dedication by coming to early morning workouts, which was quite a sight," added Coach Beierle. Sophomore member Jenny Johnston concluded, "Nice coaches such as Jon and Kris enabled us to really work hard and try our best at every meet."

SETTING SIGHTS

Both Varsity and J.V. Boys' Volleyball expected a successful season. Despite the Titan's tough league, Varsity Coach Scott Cameron "expected them to be in the running for a playoff berth." Senior Yosh Nakahara, also setting his sights on CIF qualification, regarded this year's team as "one of the best teams ever." Early in the season, Junior Henry Wang, who returned for a second year as a varsity setter, predicted, "We have a lot going for us this year; the team has talent and unity. I think we will do pretty well."

The J.V. team planned to be successful in spite of tough competition. Coach Jon Imamura believed the experience of his team, which had many returning players, combined with the leadership of captains Jason Shih and Mark Morgan would produce success for J.V. Sophomore Dann Angeloff explained, "We're much farther ahead than we were this time last year, besides most people can do everything instead of everyone being a specialist." According to Sophomore Brian Hahn, who was speaking for his whole team, "J.V.'s biggest asset was the great coaching duo of Mr. I. and Miss Cyndi Chubbuck."

Senior Yosh Nakahara hits while his teammates cover. This was Yosh's third year on the varsity team.

Setting the ball to Junior Bobby Heinemann, Senior Paul Mann hopes to score. Paul was last year's MVP.

J.V. • Varsity Boys' Tennis

TEAM OPTIMISM

Starting off the year "optimistically," the Varsity Boys' Tennis team possessed "individual talent as well as team unity," expressed John Fruttero, sophomore varsity player. John, Jim Pastecki, and Andrew Sheppert maintained state ranking and provided a strong basis for the team, according to varsity Coach Brian Chambers. He declared, "This should be our best chance to win CIF." To achieve this goal, players ran during daily workouts and played in weekend tournaments. Co-captains Sid Danenhauer, Jim Pastecki, and Hoon Park provided experience which played a significant factor in the team's victories against such opponents as Rolling Hills.

The J.V. team had a similar optimistic attitude as conveyed by J.V. player Allen Huang's comment, "We're trying to be the best." Their coach, Mrs. Leslie Danenhauer, incorporated running and volleying drills into their practices which led to the "overall improvement of the team," according to Freshman team member James Pappas. The players' success in matches against such teams as Mark Keppel and Alhambra showed this improvement. According to Mrs. Danenhauer, both the varsity and J.V. teams started their seasons off well because of their optimism.

Exerting lots of energy into his serve, Andrew Sheppert, varsity team member, powers the ball across the court. Andrew was ranked one of the top fifteen in the state.

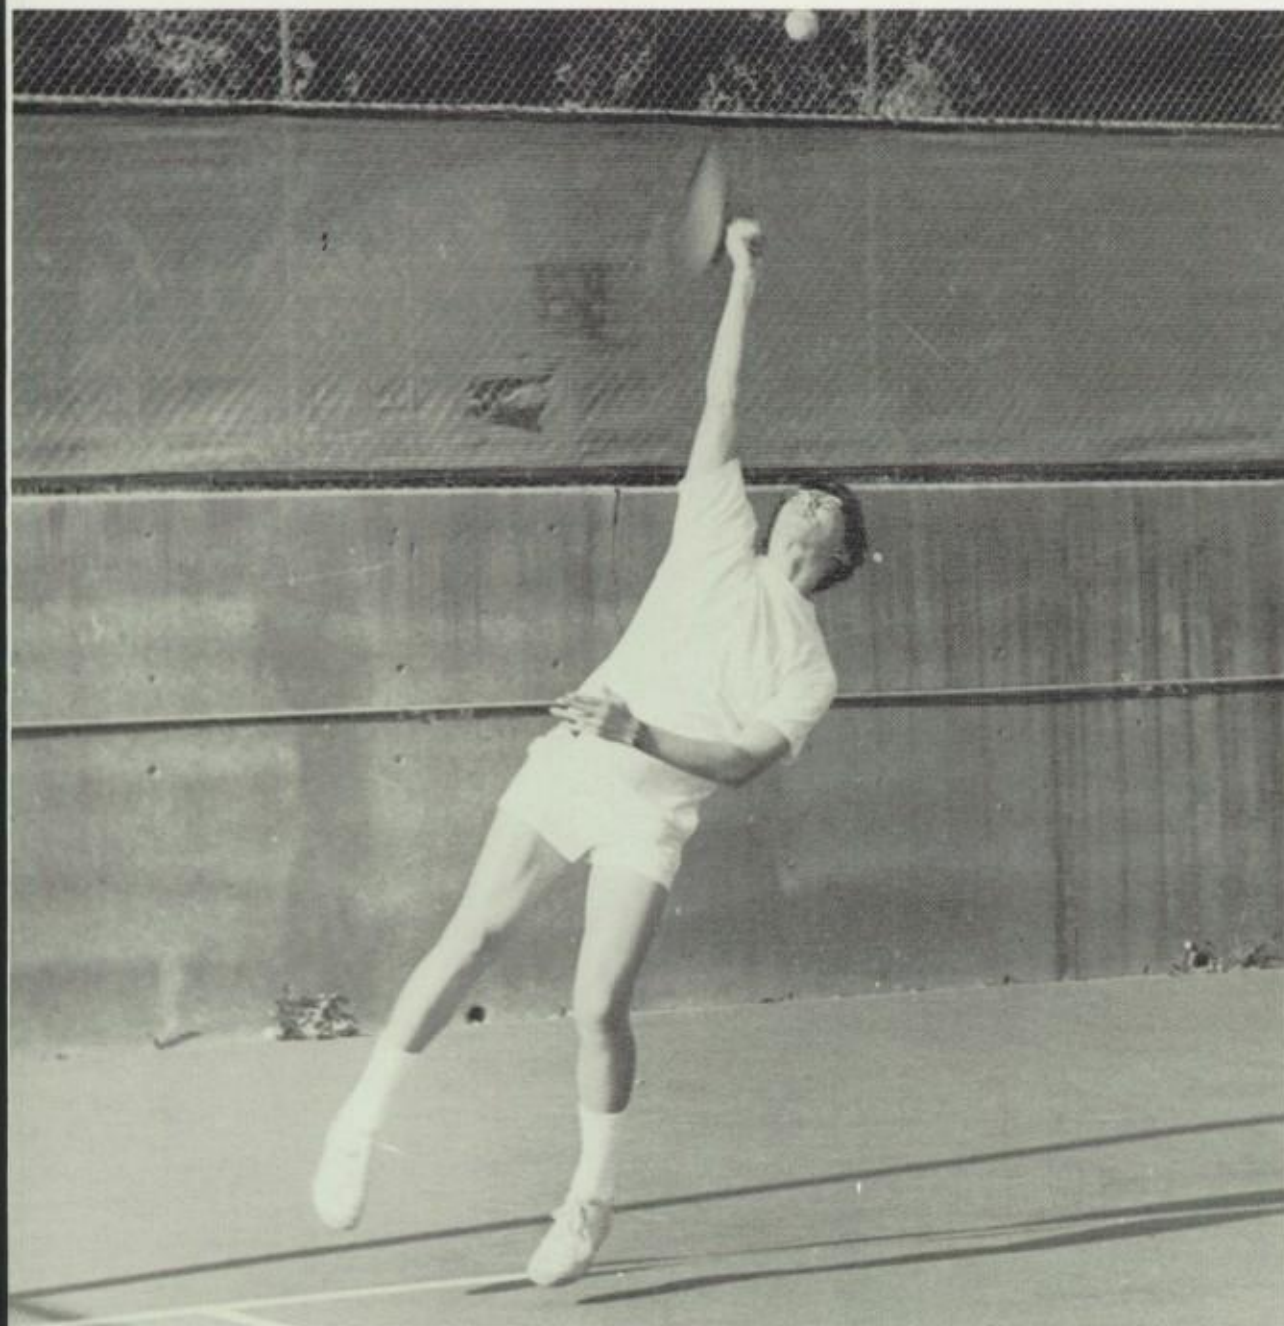

Slicing the ball with his racket, varsity team member Joe Lai watches its path toward his opponent. Joe's doubles partner was varsity player Eric Wang.

Practicing their doubles strategy, Weber Lin and James Pappas perfect their volleying and serving techniques. These were routine drills for J.V. practices.

With a powerful swing, Albert Kim serves the ball. This was Albert's second year on the varsity team.

Playing at the net, Sophomore varsity team member John Fruttero concentrates on his forehand technique. John was highly ranked in California for his age group.

Varsity Track

VITAL MEMBERS

"The team showed great enthusiasm, leadership, and many other positive traits that could only result in success," expressed Coach Kevin Hall. Assisting Coach Hall, Mr. George Arms, Mr. Andy Steben, and Mr. David Crist aided in coaching the Varsity Track team.

Seniors Blair Chang and David Solomon were the captains of the boys' team. Coach Hall felt that Todd Lund helped the team in the mile relay; Jim Nida, Erik Penn, and Blair Chang in distances; and David Solomon, Charles Yang, Pat Long, and Mark McGregor in sprints. Coach Hall expressed that the girls' team, as a result of a strong freshman class, had a chance for the league title. The captains of the girls' team were Diane Pettit and Lib Crary. According to Coach Hall, Diane Pettit, Alisha Oropallo, and Agnes Santiago excelled in distances; Lib Crary, Kelly Smith, and Leslie Wallen in sprints. Also, Pauline Mu, Judy Antoci, Kim Furuta, and Jennifer Spencer made great contributions.

Winning most of their earlier meets, the Varsity Track team began the season successfully.

Because both teams had many strong members, Coach Hall felt that "the team had great potential on both the dual meet and individual level."

After much practice, Charles Heinemann does the pole vault at one of the track meets. This was his first year on the varsity team.

Boys' Varsity Track. Front Row: Mark McGregor, Chris Spears; Second Row: Ken Wong, Charles Yang, Charles Heinemann, David Solomon, Blair Chang, Mike Garcia, Erik Penn, Jim Nida; Third Row: Albie Volero, Steven Guluzian, Mark Morris, Vincent Chou, David Hsu, William Chen, Jim Tsai, John Hsu, Michael Wang; Fourth Row: Tony Young, Todd Lund, Pat Long, David Calnon, John Bishop, Jeff Holman, Richard Adams, Michael Sung, Ta-Lun Wu, and Joe Maldonado.

Quickly running around the track, David Solomon pushes himself to finish the sprint. David was the captain of the boys' team.

Running the relay race, Richard Adams finishes for his team. The victory of this race helped towards the overall win against San Gabriel.

Carefully clearing the bar, Judy Antoci does the high jump. As a freshman, this was Judy's first year on the team.

Slightly ahead of the others, Diane Pettit leads one of the distance races. Diane was co-captain of the girls' team.

Exerting himself to jump farther, Vincent Chou shows his ability in the long jump. Coach Hall felt this was a successful team because of each member's enthusiasm.

Using all her energy, Agnes Santiago runs in a distance race. Coach Hall felt that Agnes was a vital part of the team.

Myron Scott breaks the tape while running against San Gabriel. This was his first year on the team.

Frosh/Soph Track. Front Row: Myron Scott, Lou Tran, Richard Young, Eric McGregor, Steve Bae, Peter Syiau, Sunny Sung, Ryutaro Moriyama, David Chen, Eric Chen, Nick Demopulos, Jerry Chen; Second Row: Jay Trinnamin, David Zuckerman, Chris Yee, Kim Tung, David Young, Paul Wanson, Tom Ott, Scott Hoy, Geoff Heredia, Jong-Won Chang, Allan Wu, Maurice DeWolff; Third Row: Owen Lee, Brent Chang, Jerry Dietrick, Bryant Lin, Daniel Wu, Soon Min Tan, Brian Sax, Ed Atkinson, Cory Blossiu, Troy Keith, David Cooper, Andrew Quon, Jeff Welton, Billy Lau, Andrew Richter, Tyler Bennett, and James Pott.

Filled with anxiety, Ted Chien chips the ball cautiously. Ted was one of the captains of the golf team.

POSITIVE TRAITS

As the meet against Arcadia came to an end, the scores were tallied. San Marino won with eighty-five points, defeating Arcadia who only had twenty-three points. "This team showed great enthusiasm, leadership, and many other positive traits which resulted in success," commented Mr. Kevin Hall, the head coach of the track team.

The two sophomore team captains, Ed Atkinson and Brian Sax, helped out by competing with their fellow teammates. Atkinson, a sprinter, ran the hundred meter sprint and the one mile relay. Sax ran distances, the mile and the 880. Atkinson helped out by running and also by competing in the long jump and the triple jump.

"This year's team had depth and experience compared to the other years," noted Mr. Bill Rowland. Mr. Rowland is a veteran golf coach. The captains of the team were Ted Chien and Kathleen Shanahan. Both have been long-time golf team members. As the captains, they kept scores for both teams and "comforted others at their worst moments."

Heaving the 8-pound shot, Troy Keith shows the exertion on his face. The team was victorious in this meet against San Gabriel.

“ I think high school has made me learn to plan and budget my time to have time for more things. This ability has helped me organize out-of-school events so that I can get more out of my life. ”

— Kathy Salo

“ Teachers don't spoon feed you anymore. They let you investigate, learn, and discover on your own. It's very encouraging to know that you're trusted to be your own teacher. ”

— Nelson Mills

“ I love meeting people and I try to be their friend. I try to say “hi” to people I recognize in the halls instead of looking at the ground. I think it makes other people as happy as it makes me when I do this. ”

— Andrea Pott

“ I used to not be as self-confident as I am now. I used to worry about who I talked to and whether or not my clothes were in fashion. That’s behind me now. I don’t worry about what people think of me. ”

— Jim Nida

“ I have become a more self-assured person. As a freshman, I clung to friends for assurance. Now, through being exposed to different ways of life through my classes, I have developed my own values and convictions . . . It’s exciting! I’m happy to have learned that I’m my own best friend. ”

— Heather Spencer

“I’ll really miss the faculty here. I think it’s great when a teacher can help you understand the quadratic formula and then turn around and listen to your problems sympathetically.”

— Jessica Schmidt

“I’ll miss knowing that I’m still legally able to call myself a little girl. I’ll miss acting obnoxious and hyper, and knowing that I can always come home for dinner.”

— Kirsty Wohl

“I will probably miss all the attention I get: it is wonderful to be able to walk down a hall and have 15 people say ‘hi’ to you with a smile. It’s great to know everybody.”

— Ruthie Escalante

I fear losing the warmth and companionship I've grown so used to with my good friends. We've grown up together and need each other in a lot of ways. The security and love that these friends represent will be missed as we all move on. I just pray that no one will forget the good times shared by the class of '87!

— Nancy Odom

I'll definitely miss all my friends; that's a given. All the laughs, the good times, and weekends together. I don't know what's going to happen to all of us, whether we'll move away or come back to San Marino to raise the next generation. Time will tell.

— Dan Jett

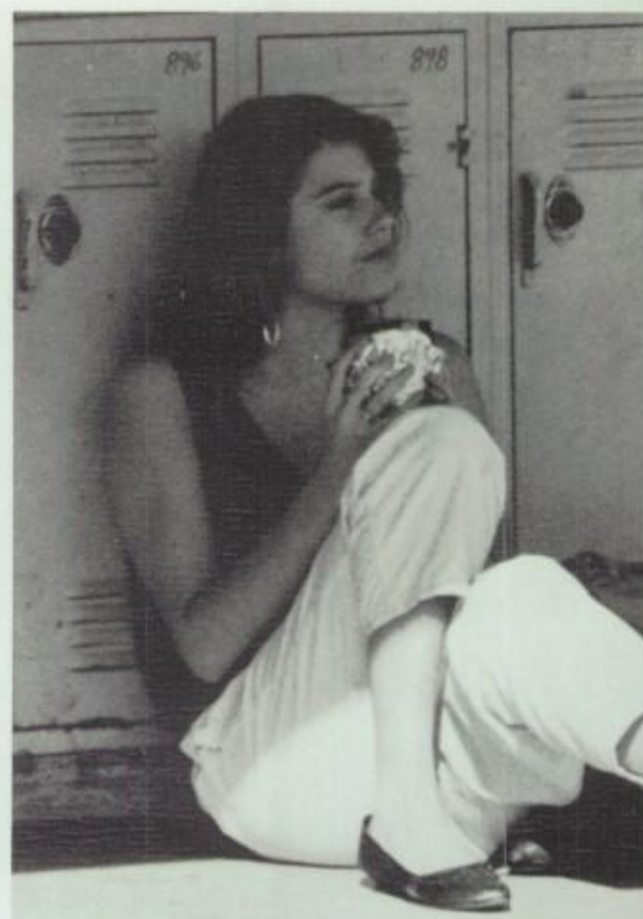

The End of the School Year LOOKING BACK

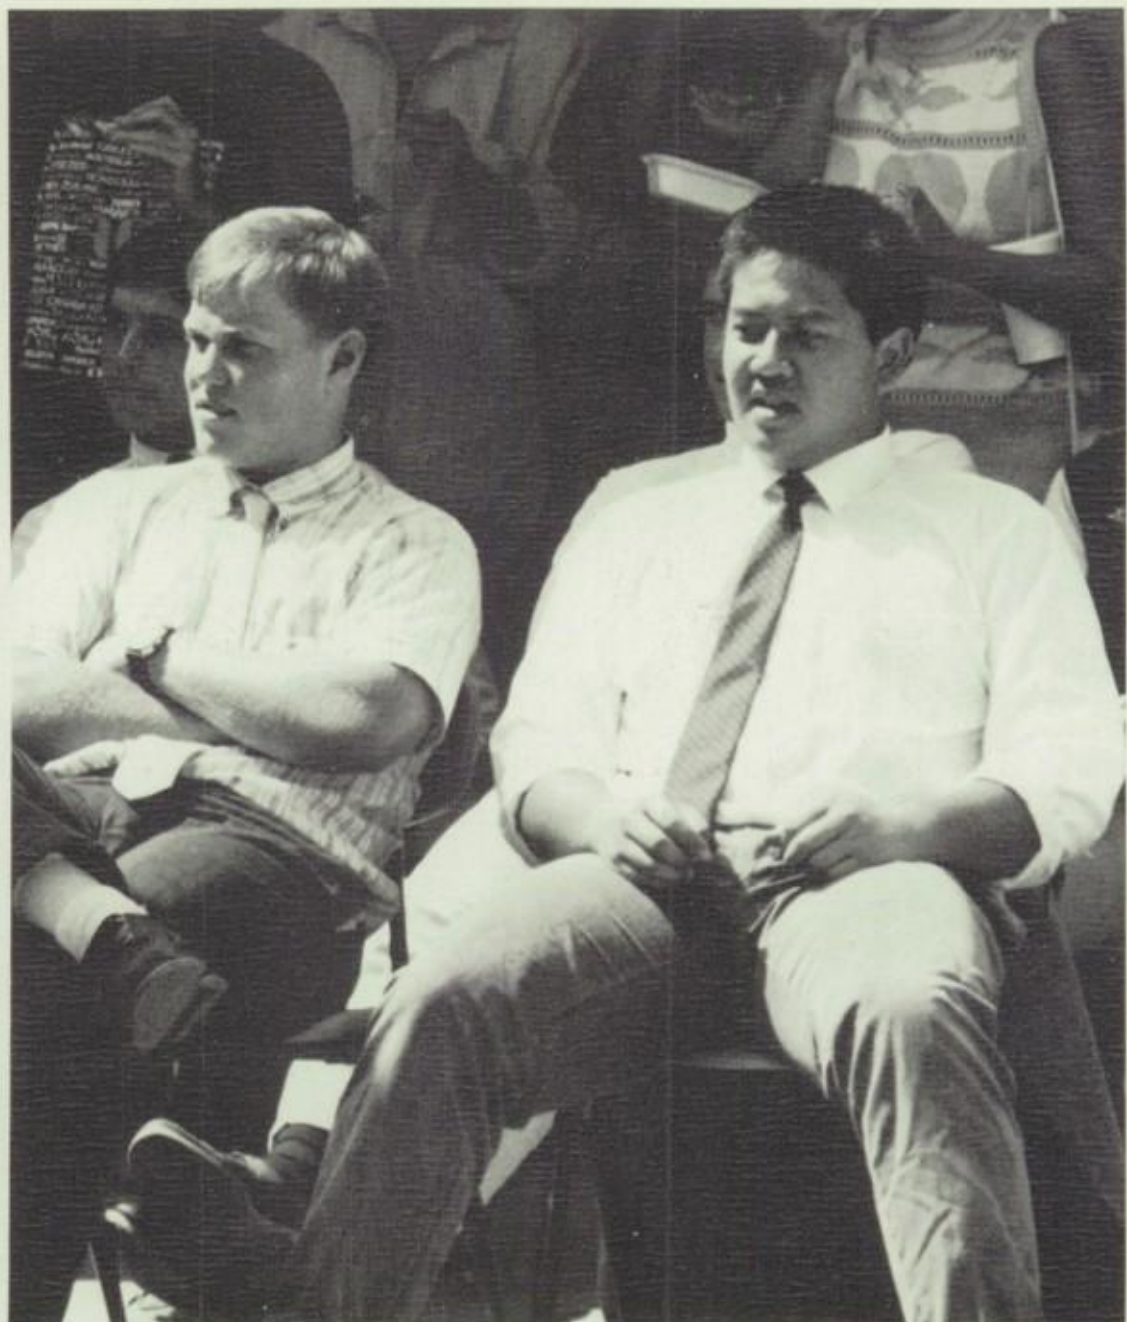

It's over. No one can believe it, but evidence that the school year is ending surrounds us. People are emptying their lockers, signing yearbooks, and talking about their summer plans. The suspense of the Senior Awards Assembly, the emotion of Baccalaureate, and the anticipation of graduation and Grad Night produce a buzz of excitement. All this commotion slowly convinces everyone that the year is coming to a close.

After finally accepting the fact that school is over, each of us looks back on the eventful year, filled with good and bad memories. The difficult experiences, perhaps doing badly in a class, not being asked to the Prom, or being rejected from the college of one's dreams, although unpleasant, have taught us to accept setbacks. It is the good memories, however, such as the friendships we have made, the teachers we have gotten to know well and love, and the team that we won CIF with, that are the things that have made high school special. It suddenly hits us that we are going to miss high school very much.

With mixed emotions we say goodbye to four years of our lives. We will miss the great times we had in high school, but we realize that the future beckons to us and that we must move on. The personal growth each of us experienced in high school will by no means end with graduation. On the contrary, the end of high school is really a new beginning.

Ray -
 you should! You're a cool guy we can play alot. Hope over the summer. I'll see you next year.
 Sean

Ray -
 It's been a cool
 year getting to know you better. Hope to see you around next year and have fun in summer school.
 Sean.

RAY

What's up? Well Accounting has been fun and strange.
 we had a fun table to sit at. (Always talking and getting told to shut up by Mr. Zeman.) O'well, we passed the class and had a good time doing it! Have a good Summer and take care. Love,
 Kari Siverling

Raymond -
 you're a cool guy
 I'm glad to of gotten to know you in English. ~~Have~~ a great summer.
 see you next year.
 Sydney.

Ray - What are you going to do with your girlfriend over the summer. Haha
 Geometry sucked.
 But that's Mr. Bayer
 Haven't great summer

Ray -
 Can you believe NO more Mr. Byer!! I'm so excited for summer. I hope to see you sometime.
 You are the best dancer!
 you were the best at your sisters party. Have a grt summer! Ya! Dina

AN

Ray
 Accounting was fun wasn't it?
 Well, I'm glad that we had a class together because it was pretty fun. Maybe we'll get some more classes together next year.
 Keep on lifting those weights.
 Have a cool summer.

Harrison Jang

Raymond - we sure had a good time at the end of the year. I don't know about you. But I am probably having Mr. Zeman next year. A year. Stay cool over the summer and maybe we'll have some classes together.
 Dad is in the house
 now. P.H.

Dear Ray -

This year's gone by so fast! It's too bad we didn't have any classes together or anything. Maybe next year we'll. Hope so. Well enjoy the summer but don't PARTY too hard. -Mike. Keep in touch. <3 ya ->

-Mike

Ray

Look. I'm right under Jiji. So what you think about this year? It went ZOOM to me. <3 & & U. It went to spike some over the summer. Hope you do! That way you'll come back KILLING. HAVE A GOOD SUMMER.

Memory C. Wang

Ray - The best dressed guy in Geometry, I'll see you in Geometry next year.

Have Fun Douglas
B. B. B.

Paul!

I feel like I've known you forever. Well, I've known you since fourth grade so... you're a great guy. I just love you. Have a terrific summer. I'll see you next year.

LUV ya,
TAWN

Yo Ray.

We've been good friends for a long time. Next year I hope we'll have more classes together. Keep playing tennis. You'll be great.

See ya. Have a great summer

Mike - C.

Raymond -

The year has ended finally!!!

We survived another year. Unfortunately, we didn't have any classes together this year. Maybe next year we will have at least one class together. Have a cool summer - C-ya next year.

next year tennis.

Keep on playing <3 Amy

Raymond,
 It's nice to know you and
 you're a friend with you.
 I'll remember you forever. Wish you'll have a cool and great summer next year. Continue to be a tennis player. Love,
 See you in team!! Connie

Hi Ray!

Can you believe that this year is over?
 It was so much fun
 going to Magic Mountain, & roses with you! We will probabably go out with ya in the summer.
 Have a good summer

Love

Linda

P.S. Sorry about all the cross outs. I was watching the Bowling

 -trickling-

Nineteen Eighty-Seven

Ray -

School almost out.
 I can wait just 3 more days

Hey Raymond!
 what's going on dude?
 Yeah, You're either reading this, right after I wrote this or 20 years from now
 when you're an old grandpa, tell the grandkids that you knew me before I became master of the world and show them my beautiful signature. Maybe you could even sell it for big $,
 Oh well, even if you can't, you'll still have my wonderful signature.
 Later Dude
 Some P.O.

Dear Raymond,
 Howz life?
 I had a great time
 w/ you at the 50's, & sister's party was a blast. Have a great summer n hope we have classes again in next year.

Stay cool.

Luv ya,
 Betty
